Steel industry 'down-sized'

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

The transition in autos for several years has involved "down-sizing" of vehicle dimensions. The steel industry, which is principal supplier, the steel industry, which in late September gave signs of accelerating its trend to smaller plants and fewer facilities.

No. 1 U.S. Steel prepared to close more plants and persisted in trying to import British steel slabs, despite the Reagan administration's decision to oppose such imports.

No. 3 and 4 producers Jones-Laughlin and Republic took steps to merge and move past Bethlehem to become No. 2 in size.

Rapidly-diversifying No. 5 National Steel Corp. (owner of Granite City Steel), based in Pittsburgh, moved into the final stage of selling its Weirton, W. Va., plant to the employees there.

The "marriage" between Republic Steel and LTV Corp. owner of Jones-Laughlin, is seen as having good and bad points. In making "one healthy company out of two ailing producers," the proposal calls for closings and layoffs.

Professor Kathy Harrigan of Columbia University's Graduate School of Business said the merger "recognizes the realities of international competition and also is a way of 'down-sizing' an industry that desperately needs it."

Other steelmakers now may give increasing attention to merger possibilities, industry analysts believe. National Steel, which has just created a parent company known as National Intergraph, has gone another route than merger in trying to return to profitability.

The firm said steel may shrink to no more than half of Intergraph's total operations as it emphasizes money-making as well as product-making.

There is no other way than profits to attract the investing public, and steel boom times are more cyclical than those of certain other goods and services, National is convinced.

Revive GC development plans

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

A financial planner has been asked to develop a strategy for Granite City to rehabilitate blighted areas which still hold promise for public and private enterprise.

Fred Walton, the consultant, is investigating the use of tax increment financing to back any future development.

Those plans might include a downtown hotel and an entertainment complex or cultural center, along with service-oriented offices.

Lack of money has curbed a variety of past studies to improve the downtown and surrounding areas. Tax increment financing would allow the city to borrow against future taxes expected to result from the increased value of redeveloped property.

Walton gave an overall view of the state increment tax law at the Granite City Council meeting last week. He has conducted previous talks with Mayor Paul Schuler and the council's industrial search committee.

Walton next plans to meet with the city engineering staff to determine what areas in the city would qualify as state-defined blight areas from which to start his redevelopment feasibility inventory.

"We should look at a large area—a downtown area, and fringe areas," Walton, of Peckham Guyton Albers & Viets, Inc., St. Louis, said, adding, "The bigger the better."

The downtown area probably holds limited opportunity for any new retail activity, according to Walton, who hopes a rehabilitation plan would serve to stabilize those businesses currently operating there.

Instead, the project might try to build on the financial and government basis already in place, and expand in that direction.

In addition, the former Washington Theater, currently housing a church group, could be used as a municipal gathering center or cultural building.

Walton expects to report back to the council next month after identifying what areas appear to hold the most potential for new investment. He is then expected to propose a fee, which would allow his company to recruit investors and to write a redevelopment plan.

Peckham Guyton Albers & Viets are involved in other increment-financed redevelopment projects, including those in Springfield and Peoria.

Under restrictions imposed by the "Real Property Increment Allocation Act," the redevelopment area will have to be at least one and a half acres large. Required also is the repayment of the construction bonds within 20 years of issuance.

For the project to be most successful, public understanding, private investment and interest, quick development and an early bond repayment are vital, Walton said.

Third Ward Alderman Paul Fisk said city officials and members of the business community have been meeting for about three years in an effort to form a workable redevelopment plan. Increment financing had been discussed and businessmen are "very interested" in it, he said.

The funds could be used to put in underground electrical connections to eliminate hanging wires in the downtown area or to construct a multi-level parking lot, Fisk said.

The city's latest downtown redevelopment plan suffered a setback when David Nolan, then assistant to the mayor, left to become parks director, and when part-time city planner Joseph Parente resigned to accept a job with the county.

They had previously presented sketches of a proposed "People's Park" to be constructed at 19th Street and Delmar Avenue, and had identified the ownership and availability of office spaces in the downtown area.

4-day work week for EOC employees

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Editor

About 25 employees of the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission (EOC) have had their work week reduced to four days, rather than the usual five, effective today, but the chairman of the EOC Board of Directors, John Ervin of Venice, refuses to say whether the cut in hours is an administrative order or by action of the board.

"I wouldn't want to make a comment on that until the board meets next Thursday (Oct. 6)," Ervin told the Press-Record Friday.

A Press-Record reporter was excluded from the board's meeting in Alton Sept. 8, a meeting Ervin described as "more or less of an informal meeting." The reporter was assured, at that time, that no official actions would be taken by the board. Assistant Madison County State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith contends that the meeting may have been in violation of the Illinois Open Meetings Act, even if no actions were taken.

Last Wednesday, most EOC employees were told that they could be cut back to a four-day work week and would stagger their days off, so that the office could remain open five days a week.

One employee said she was told the order came from the board. Ervin said there has been no board meeting since the Sept. 8 meeting. Asked again if the order to cut back the employee hours was a board action, Ervin said, "We don't know anything about it until we have our board meeting (Oct. 6)," Ervin noted.

Ruben Williams, executive director of the EOC, was in Chicago and unavailable for comment. "He told employees he would return by today or Tuesday," an assistant said.

Gene Morelli, director of finance for the EOC, noted he was told by Williams that most employees were to be cut to four days, effective today. Cuts pertain to 15 administrative persons, including Williams, Morelli and Opal Davis, director of operations. Also, 10 employees in other programs were to go on four-day schedules today.

At first, employees of the Head Start program also were slated for shortened weeks, but appealed and had their full hours restored. One source said they appealed to Head Start in Chicago, but Morelli said it is his understanding that they appealed to Williams, who ordered their hours restored.

At no time did the administration propose cutting the hours of the Foster Grandparents program, which involves senior citizens, Morelli stated. Nor did the proposals include the Weatherization Program employees, who are paid directly by the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs under a special grant designed to straighten out deficiencies in work done on homes during the original program.

Morelli said the suggested cuts were designed to help the EOC remain financially sound and avoid another "payless payday" like employees experienced recently. "We are trying to head off those kinds of things. I don't know if it will succeed," he said.

He recalled that packets outlining the suggested cuts were mailed out early last week to all board members, so they

Searchers fail to find escapee

The manhunt for escaped robber Marvin Dale Berry is continuing today after a search of homes Friday night failed to locate him in the State Park Place area of Nameoki Township.

The 54-year-old former Granite City, last seen at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 28, at the Greyhound bus station in downtown St. Louis, is believed to still be in this metropolitan area—possibly the Granite City area, St. Louis or Glen Dale.

About 40 federal, state, county and local officers spent two hours Friday evening going through five homes in the 3100 block of Ambrose Avenue in the State Park residential area near the Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site.

Fred Meyer, deputy U.S. marshal of the Southern District of Illinois, said an anonymous caller telephoned his office at about 6 p.m. Friday and said Berry was in that vicinity.

Quinn proposes utility tax cuts

The Coalition for Political Honesty's statewide referendum campaign to win adoption of the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1994 to reduce the state utility tax from 5 percent to 2.5 percent came to Granite City Friday.

Coalition spokesman Patrick Quinn said the fairest way to grant tax relief is to cut the state utility tax, which his families and small businesses the hardest. Quinn said that under current law, 5 percent of everyone's electric, gas and phone bill is turned over to the state treasury.

"The utility tax is a cruel and unfair tax," said Quinn. "It taxes necessities such as heat and it goes up as utility rates go up, making the state a partner with utility companies in picking consumer's pocket."

Quinn said the coalition's utility tax relief plan would be funded by closing tax loopholes for giant multi-national corporations. "The Taxpayer Relief Act will give tax relief to the hard-pressed consumers and small businesses in Illinois who have been footing the bill for tax subsidies to some of the largest and wealthiest corporations in the world."

He said the three tax loopholes which would be closed by the Taxpayer Relief Act are: state conformity to federal accelerated depreciation for corporate investments; the state's ban on world-

I-255 to proceed

Chief U.S. District Judge James L. Foreman of the Southern District of Illinois ruled Friday at East St. Louis in favor of the Interstate 255 project.

Rejecting a complaint by 14 Quad-City and Collinsville area property owners, the judge said they were not denied due process in the Illinois Transportation Department's planning of a 5½-mile extension of the I-255 corridor northward from I-55-70 to I-270 near Glen Carbon.

State officials said that missing the Sept. 30 deadline to apply for $37 million in 1994 federal funding would have delayed completion at least a year. The U.S. is providing about 90 percent of the cost of the construction.

Contractors and craftsmen praised the court decision, saying it will enable the work to proceed on schedule. Plaintiffs said they will decide early this week whether to appeal the ruling.

Concerns included drainage flow in the highway area and the loss of 400 to 500 acres of farmland.

The lawsuit also challenged whether the department gave the public an adequate opportunity to question the need for the road segment. Opponents said the money instead should be spent upgrading existing highways.

In a four-page order, Judge Foreman said the U.S. Constitution does not give citizens veto power over high legislative-approved projects. He cited a 1974 Texas ruling that was upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Dixon backs VA move

U.S. Senator Alan J. Dixon has indicated his strong support for a proposal by the Veterans Administration to move its St. Louis Records Office to Granite City.

In a letter to Harry N. Walters, administrator of the Veterans Administration, Dixon and other members of the Illinois Congressional delegation acknowledged that the Army has agreed to provide free rent, valued at $794,000 per year, at the Granite City Area Support Center, also known as the former Army Depot.

In addition, the Army has offered to pay half of the $2.5 million in moving costs from St. Louis to Granite City.

"Cost estimates for refurbishing the old Bunting in St. Louis are between $40 and $60 million. To build a new facility would be even more costly," Dixon said.

"The agreement made by the Army is a fiscally responsible way of dealing with this matter. We believe this is an excellent decision and should be upheld."

Woman electrocuted

Karol E. Jones, a 28-year-old resident of 2311 State St., was killed at 12:12 a.m. Friday when her car crashed into a utility pole on Illinois Route 185, causing a 7,200-volt power line to fall on her car.

Mrs. Jones' car was the only vehicle involved in the accident.

Injured in the collision was passenger, Ronald L. Miller, of 3011 Myrtle Ave. Miller was taken to Oliver C. Anderson Hospital, Maryville, where he was treated and later released.

Mrs. Jones was driving west on Route 185 when her car ran off the south side of the road (about two miles from Illinois Route 157) and then skidded north, back across the road into the power pole.

Illinois Power Co. crews turned off the power for rescuers.

Mrs. Jones was pronounced dead at the scene at 12:05 a.m. by Madison County Deputy Coroner William Sternberg.

Deputy Coroner Dick Mizell said Sunday an autopsy showed that Mrs. Jones' death resulted from electrocution.

Man charged with attempted theft

An anonymous phone call tipped off Pontoon Beach police officers to the attempted theft of an automobile last week.

Upon response, the investigating officer noticed three young men pushing a 1966 Volkswagen away from the Gerald Ambroso home at 3801 Lake Drive. Upon seeing the approaching officer, the suspects fled, two of them escaping. Caught and arrested with attempted felony theft was Gene Jackson, 17, of 4058 Bruno Ave., Pontoon Beach.

When captured, Jackson allegedly told officers that he and his accomplices had received permission from the owner of the vehicle, Ambroso, to move the vehicle. Further investigation by the officers revealed that Ambroso was unaware of any such agreement.

Jackson, currently on probation for theft, was taken to the Granite City police station and jailed.

In an unrelated matter, Pontoon Beach police received a complaint early this week of a battery by Kenneth J. Davis, 37, of 4049 Kathy Drive. The report was made by Linda Kerr, who alleged Davis choked her and left bruises on her neck. Davis, who appeared before Associate Judge Thomas Hildebrand, pleaded guilty to the charges. He paid a fine and was released.

ENTER VEHICLE

An AM-FM cassette player was removed from the dashboard of an auto belonging to Phillip Parker, 1433 Madison Ave., he reported last week. The theft occurred while the vehicle was parked at the rear of his home.

Marion Goodin named interim director for the United Way

Appointment of an interim director for the Tri-Cities Area United Way, Inc., has been made by Bill H. Terrell, president, at the general board meeting this month.

Mrs. Marion Goodin, former secretary and office manager for the United Way, has been appointed. After 35 years of continued service, Mrs. Goodin, nicknamed "Mickie," retired in January 1982. Her husband James E. Goodin, also is retired. Mrs. Goodin has a daughter, Pamela Bjorkman, and three grandchildren, Brett, Brian and Brooke.

In appointing Mrs. Goodin, Terrell stated, "It is people like Mrs. Goodin who step forward and stay involved through the United Way moving ahead."

Terrell also appointed a search committee for the purpose of obtaining a permanent executive director. The chairman of that committee is Paul Raczlewicz. Other members on the committee are Jim Eisenbeis, George Knecht, Linda Schermer, Margaret Lee and Kathy Maleer. He is urging people from the local community to send their resumes to a nominating committee, with Darryl Slater appointed as chairman. Other members of the committee are Bob Means, Jack Lee, Mattie Pope and Mary Tarpoft. This committee is responsible for nominating new officers and board members for Tri-Cities Area United Way, Inc.

Bond was set at $21,000, and a mittimus was issued to send him to the county jail at Edwardsville. Valle also was cited for contempt of court for failure to pay the fine on an earlier charge and was sentenced to spend five days in the county jail. He was transferred Tuesday morning to the county jail.

Travelers attend 'Evening in Paris'

Approximately 75 members and guests attended the September meeting of Travelers Abroad, last week, which was held at St. Peter's Evangelical United Church of Christ.

Waiving the business meeting, Vice-President Alice Purdy introduced Miss Marguerite Barker. Miss Barker, assisted by Dan Vizer, invited the group to spend "An Evening in Paris" through the eyes of artist Maurice Utrillo and the music of composer Robert Hebble. The combination of the two art forms produced a very unusual program, according to a club spokesman.

In the Fellowship Hall of the church Miss Barker presented slides of Utrillo's Paris scenes and this was followed by an organ recital by Vizer in the church sanctuary. The composer, Hebble, received his inspiration from Utrillo's palette sketches.

A display of Utrillo's work was available for study as the audience enjoyed French pastries and coffee in the fellowship hall.

The next meeting of Travelers Abroad will be on Oct. 24 in the Frasier elementary school cafeteria. A faculty member from SIU-Carbondale will show slides and discuss New Zealand. It was noted.

'Buy American' steel law OK'd by Thompson

Gov. James R. Thompson has made changes in a bill that would have required state and local governments to buy only products manufactured or produced in the United States.

"As a top agricultural and industrial exporter, Illinois must keep open the channels of free trade with other nations, or risk retaliative restrictions which would devastate our economy."

"Illinois jobs depend on maintaining or increasing the demand for our products here and overseas. To cut our ties in the name of jobs preservation would be shortsighted and counterproductive," the governor said in his amendatory veto message.

Thompson vetoed the "Buy American" policy to "buy steel products, saying 'the steel industry in Illinois and the U.S. — a critical national defense industry — is one area where massive dislocation has occurred and American firms have been placed at a distinct competitive disadvantage by foreign companies and countries.'"

As passed, Thompson said, the bill would have increased costs for state and local governments. It also would have required agencies to trace the content and origin of goods to determine if they were U.S. manufactured.

Senate Bill 133 now goes back to the General Assembly for action on the changes.

Dickey heads new grand jury

A new Madison County grand jury impaneled last week has as its foreman Harlan L. Dickey of Granite City.

The 23-member jury will serve for four months. A quorum consists of 16, and indictments require 12 affirmative votes.

The new jury also includes Richard W. Zeisset and Mary Frances Pasel, both of Madison, and Granite Cityans Mathilda Olsen, Shirley Ann Smith, Michael J. Murphy and Gail Fritz.

The jury was impaneled by Chief Circuit Judge A.A. Maloesian and the oath was administered by Circuit Clerk Willard V. Portell.

The final report of the previous grand jurors recommended that their successors review the operation of the Madison County juvenile detention home.

Maloesian also suggested that more time be allowed for outdoor recreation on a regular basis at the juvenile home, that personal items like family photos be permitted in rooms, that a recreation court be cleaned and repaired, that management be strengthened, that the staff improve its attire and personal appearance and that the building be cleaned, painted and repaired.

Supt. Darrell McGibany said some of the problems stem from budget cuts and staff layoffs. The staff is too small to send detainees outdoors, he commented, adding that he has had to close the kitchen and lay off two cooks and four other employees.

Regular attendance by pupils will be stressed

The Illinois Association for Truancy Prevention has been formed to actively pursue a comprehensive understanding of unnecessary school absenteeism.

The association also will advocate and promote action necessary to establish regular school attendance patterns for all primary and secondary students in Illinois.

Harold E. "Gene" Briggs of Nameoki Township, regional superintendent of schools of Madison County, has joined the new association as fiscal agent for the Madison County Truancy Alternative Program. The Alternative Program is under the direction of Dr. Janet Nazeri, with offices located at the Coordinated Youth Services in Granite City.

To date, 21 regional superintendents of schools and the Chicago Board of Education have joined this initiative. The State Board of Education is providing meeting space and general support.

With 40,000 to 70,000 children truant from Illinois schools each day, it is necessary to conduct ongoing assessment of this problem.

"We will encourage parents, students, families, community organizations, school districts, law enforcement agencies, courts, higher education officials, appropriate statewide organizations and government agencies to address the causes of this issue," said Jeffrey A. May, president of the newly-formed organization and director of the Family Intervention Program of the Grundy-Kendall Education Service Region.

"In most cases, truancy is just a symptom of deeper rooted problems. Problems can include divorce, alcoholism, death of family members, drug abuse, unstable economic conditions, poor self-concepts, child abuse, neglect, parental attitudes toward education, poor academic achievement, peer relationships and teacher relationships.

"Truancy is not just a school problem; it's a community problem. If we are to be successful in this area, we must involve entire communities."

"The Association for Truancy Prevention is now opening membership to schools, parents, students, human service agencies, law enforcement agencies, court services, higher education personnel, government officials, state agencies and anyone else interested in truancy prevention," May continued.

"We feel that a broad-based membership will give us more comprehensive understanding of the problems — and more diverse resources in meeting these children's needs."

Goals will be to: provide ongoing assessment of the number, needs and services for potential truant, truant, and chronically truant students; promote "better public understanding of truancy; advocate effective public policy to combat truancy in Illinois; provide a forum for providers and consumers of truancy prevention services; and encourage adequate funding for truancy prevention.

Activities for the coming year will include in-depth assessment of truancy, review of successful truancy programs, development of a state-wide truancy workshop, and discussion of critical issues related to truancy prevention.

For more information concerning the group, individuals and organizations here may contact the Illinois Association for Truancy Prevention, c/o Grundy-Kendall Educational Service Region, Courthouse, Room 29, Morris, Ill. 60450 or call Dr. Janet Nazeri at 876-2283.

Madison Parents Club undertakes fundraiser

Members of the Madison Parents' Club agreed last week to undertake a fundraising project involving the sale of sausages and cheeses.

Mr. Mike Shaner, representative from Mister Z's Pizza Company, made a presentation concerning raising funds through these types of sales.

Also discussed at the meeting was the room contest. This contest provides $25 to the teacher having the most representation of parents present at the September, October, November and December meetings. Parents participating in this contest must be paid members of the club. Dues are $2 per year. Hostesses for the Oct. 18 meeting will be Leslie Johnson and Janice Kating.

Emergency room physicians honored

By CINDY KOSTYDOR
St. Elizabeth
Medical Center

Persons seeking a career in the medical field today have found that many highly specialized areas have developed on which an entire career can focus.

As the search for a cure for cancer continues, many limit their study to oncology, a branch of medicine dealing with tumors. Others establish medical expertise in open-heart surgery.

But, there is one type of physician who must obtain comprehensive medical knowledge before offering his services to the public: Those who need immediate assistance in time of an emergency do not fall into a specific category of hurt, illness or pain. Instead, the emergency room physician must be able to deal with a variety of situations, from the small child who swallowed the elderly man who suffered a heart attack.

During the week of September 18 to 24 these special individuals were recognized and honored, along with the medical advances in emergency medicine and treatment. This was the second annual Emergency Medicine Week, sponsored by the American College of Emergency Physicians.

"It's a field that required doctors to have a broad knowledge in all areas, not in any one given area," said Dr. Steven Spurgeon, the medical director of the Emergency Room Department at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. In one day, the Emergency Room Department will serve an average of 80 patients. By the end of the year, the staff of emergency room physicians, 15 nurses, three nurses aides and nine clerks, will see about 30,000 patients.

"We must be trained to handle any case that comes through that door," said Spurgeon, an emergency room physician since 1975.

With the advent of paramedics and life-sustaining equipment, the physicians are dealing with cases, some of which would not of survived to the emergency room. With these and all other cases, the physician must be able to make an initial diagnosis and treat the patient and then make the correct recommendations to the patient's personal physician or any specialized physician so that proper follow-up care is gotten, he said.

There are other differences between the emergency room physician and other doctors. An emergency room physician can not be selective about the patients he or she treats. Everyone who seeks help is entitled to it, Spurgeon said. And then there are those patients who need medical attention but don't want it. "Some are rather hostile and would rather not be here," Spurgeon said.

Another contrast between the two is the working hours, when the emergency room physician comes to work, he or she can be assured that when their hours are up, they can go home and not be concerned about the problems or situations that occur while he or she is off duty.

"I know that when I come to work I'll be here for 12 hours. The rest of the time is mine," said Spurgeon. "Unlike the obstetrician, for example, who may be called out of bed at 2 in the morning to deliver twins."

During "peak-flow" hours, the Granite City Emergency Room has two physicians on duty. The department is most busy in the late afternoon and early evening, said Spurgeon. "Most people who come in at night are really sick. Both you and I know that we wouldn't get out of bed with just a sore throat unless we were really sick. We'd wait to go to our own doctor in the morning."

Though the patients' needs vary, most of those seen by the emergency room physician have problems associated with pediatrics, gynecology and the heart and chest.

Best place for a new overpass

It appears that, once again, government planners are working to do what is best for us, without even asking us.

The latest plan by the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) is for a new overpass over the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis tracks in Venice, by State Street at Market Street or nearby, where Market Street may be relocated. Great, BUT, that's not where we most need a new overpass.

Ask almost anyone in the Quad-City area where an overpass is most needed and a vast majority will tell you Route 162 by East 23rd Street and Maryville Road, east of the Granite City Steel coke ovens. Anyone who has driven that route more than two or three times has experienced the frustration of long trains, stopping and starting, backing up and blocking the crossing for extremely long periods of time.

Some employees who must cross the tracks enroute to work there say they leave home an extra half hour earlier in the mornings, just in case they catch a train.

With the Metro-East Rail Gateway Enterprise plan (MARGE), planners told us we needed overpasses in all kinds of strange places. Maryville Road at Route 203, West Ponton Road at Nameoki Road, east of St. Louis, needs five overpasses immediately and about a half-dozen overpasses or more under MARGE, planners say.

We think it is nice that we might get one. Nobody except us Quad-Citizens know where we most need that overpass, and it is not on Market Street in Venice, less than a block from where the Broadway overpass spans the same tracks.

"You are not looking at the future. Five thousand cars a day use that (Market Street) crossing," IDOT officials tell us.

Under MARGE, rail traffic is expected to increase there, causing longer delays than at present, they say. What they are overlooking is there is a way around the Market Street crossing and it requires very few blocks. The only ways around the Route 162 crossing require miles of extra driving, and MARGE does not provide any significant relief for the expected tieups at Route 162.

If the state hires consultants Oct. 27 for the project, as is planned, work will begin in preparing the location-design report, environmental assessment and contract plans for the relocation of Market Street and for the new structure over the railroad tracks.

We are fairly certain we will never see a Market Street overpass in our lifetimes, but we are bound to see stacks and stacks of expensive study papers. Before wasting all that money, we strongly suggest that IDOT send just one planner into this area and ask people where we most need an overpass. It would be a cheap way to avoid a very costly mistake.

Where have all overpasses gone?

Speaking of overpasses, we just cannot believe the success East St. Louis Mayor Carl Officer is having in luring overpasses to his city, which has a lower unemployment rate (according to Bureau of Employment Security) figures than Granite City.

Congress approved a $26 million allocation to East St. Louis to begin construction of a $15 million overpass on State Street over Alton and Southern Railway tracks near 42nd Street. The feds (U.S. Department of Transportation) will pick up the tab.

Not yet funded, but ready and very close, are East St. Louis overpasses over Terminal Railroad tracks at Missouri Avenue, Martin Luther King Drive, 21st Street, and 15th Street at Lincoln Avenue and 18th Street over the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad tracks at the southern end of the city.

Funding also is likely for relocating another Alton and Southern Railway tracks in the city.

All this, mind you, is in addition to the MARGE plan, which still is in the planning stage. That plan contains another half dozen or more overpasses for East St. Louis. When all are completed, arriving in that city will certainly have its ups and downs.

And we'll still be waiting on trains at Route 162.

Illinois needs a strong FOI act

Illinois remains the only state in the union without a Freedom of Information (FOI) law written by Gov. James Thompson watered down a carefully-woven law and sent it back to the legislature for more work, claiming that this bill "does not adequately protect" state agencies and officials and some local officials and citizens.

The Illinois Freedom of Information Council, made up of news people, seems to have had out to powerful lobby groups, such as the Illinois Municipal League and the Illinois Township Officials Assn., both of which exist to keep elected officials out of hot water.

Gov. Thompson says Illinois is not living in the "Dark Ages," being the only state without a Freedom of Information bill, since several other existing bills have opened certain records to the public since 1987.

Working in the news media, we can say there are far too many "gray areas" where access to certain records has been more of a courtesy by the agencies involved than a matter of records opened by law.

Quad-Citizens have been fortunate in the last decade. Local agencies, for the most part, have been extremely open with the news media, enabling us to do our job.

However, it was not always so, and there is no guarantee that it will be so in the future.

The governor wishes to close the door on criminal investigation records, wants to expand the time officials have to respond to FOI requests if more than one agency is involved and wants to strike down criminal penalties — up to a month in jail and a $500 fine — for officials who deliberately without documents.

He also removed certain state memos and staff reports from the FOI documents as his assistants must be free to "candidly address" being considered. The result would be government actions suddenly sprung upon the public as a surprise, with no advance warning that those actions were under consideration. The public would be back to relying upon "leaks" to provide warnings of upcoming actions.

We hope the legislature will give serious consideration to reworking the bill in such a way that the FOI act does its job, guaranteeing every citizen in Illinois the right to know what the officials elected to represent him are doing and how the public business is being conducted.

75-cent long distance please?

One of the benefits of the breakup of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. was supposed to be that it would push down the rates for long-distance calls.

The good news is AT&T is applying for lower long-distance rates, in order to compete with other long-distance services. AT&T can lower rates because it no longer has to maintain local service.

The bad news is AT&T wants to charge 75 cents per call for long-distance information.

Information is now free to long-distance callers. It means that businesses can locate potential customers out of state for the cost of the calls, not for looking up the phone numbers.

AT&T says that, because only 5 percent of its customers use long-distance information, other customers shouldn't pay to subsidize it.

We all pay for a less accessible long-distance phone system. Seventy-five cents is a prohibitively high cost for long-distance information. It would mean that, instead of increasing the contacts between people all over the country, some of those contacts will never be made. People with less money would be hurt most.

If AT&T wants to charge customers for long-distance information, other companies should also be permitted to sell long-distance information services. Then the free market could set the price.

We bet it would be lower.

Joint tenancy can supersede wills

Law
and you

By Rick Reed
Attorney at Law

When individuals own property in joint tenancy, this property will pass to the surviving joint tenant upon the death of the first. A bank account and real estate are examples of property which can be held in joint tenancy. Typically a husband and wife will own the family home as joint tenants. This means that when the first spouse dies, the real estate will pass to the survivor without the necessity of going through probate.

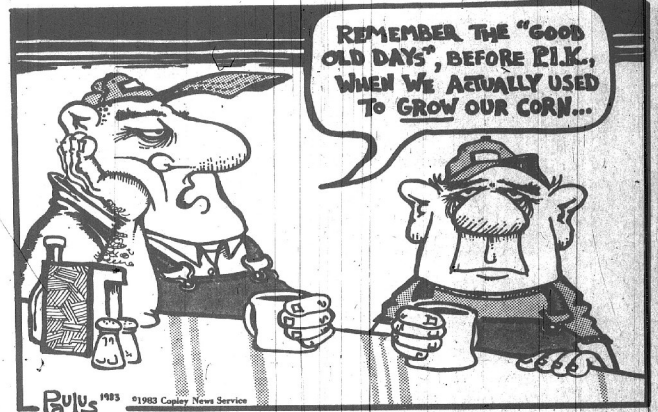

What many people do not realize is that joint tenancy property will pass to the survivor regardless of what the person's will provides with regard to that property. Let's take the example of a widow who puts $50,000 in a joint savings account with a friend and simultaneously makes a will which provides that her two children are to equally divide her property upon her death. In this situation, the friend will receive the entire $50,000 when the widow dies and the children will get none of this money.

It has been my experience that the result in the previous example is surprising to many people who believe that a will absolutely controls the way a person's property will pass upon his death. Because people are often unaware of the ramifications of a joint tenancy estate, they frequently begin transferring property into joint tenancy after they sign their will. They often do this as a matter of convenience, believing that the will controls upon their death. This is not true. When the individual dies which is completely contrary to his wishes with regard to the disposition of his property.

In one recent case, a widow signed a will which provided that upon her death, all of her property was to be divided equally among her five children. Subsequent to signing this will, she transferred large amounts of cash to a joint bank account with one of her sons. She did this as a matter of convenience so that her son could assist her in paying bills and in handling her day-to-day obligations. It was apparent that she always intended for her five children to share her property equally upon her death.

In this case, the son received all the money which was in the joint bank account when his mother died. Even though the will provided that the children were to share equally, the joint tenancy arrangement controlled with regard to the assets in the bank account. Obviously this was not what the woman intended, but she apparently operated under the false impression that the provisions in the will would be controlling upon her death.

Readers React

Press-Record readers at the main Granite City Post Office Friday were asked if the federal government should continue to pay farmers not to grow crops, especially considering the hunger in this country and around the world. Their reactions follow.

Jerry Krug, Granite City
"I don't know. Either way you have several repercussions. If you didn't pay them, they'd flood the market and bring down prices. But this could result in them, maybe, three years to help out the hungry."

Carl Turner, Granite City
"I think the government should pay farmers. My father's been a farmer his entire life and it's been hard enough raising crops the last couple of years."

Mary Ann Cowan, Granite City
"I'm against paying the farmers. There's a lot of hungry people here that don't get it (food). It's always sent to foreign countries."

Ed Schulze, Belleville
"I think that farmers are working people like anybody else and deserve to make a living. If it takes government support, then we have to. They should be supported like any other industry."

The Forum... Seith proposes steps to save steel industry

Ten years ago, Chicago was the steel capital of the world.

Twenty years ago, Illinois produced more steel than the Soviet Union.

Today, our basic steel production is faced with a threat of extinction, threatening the livelihoods of thousands of our workers, the health of our economy and, ultimately, our national security.

Despite the fashionable talk about saying goodbye to so-called "dirty" industries, no major industrialized country can afford to be without a basic steel industry. Without steel, we cannot build roads, cars, farm equipment, schools, offices or factories. Steel affects what we eat, how we get to work, where we work and where we get our education.

Unfortunately, our steel industry today is gravely ill from a combination of misguided government tax policies and shortsighted steel company decisions, which stress short-term profits. These policies have encouraged steel companies to close steel plants while using steel profits and taxpayers' money to go into other businesses. High interest rates and a prolonged recession under two administrations have also taken their toll, leaving half of the workers in the basic steel industry out of work.

Families are being torn apart as unemployment and supplemental pay benefits run out, and steel communities across this state, in South Chicago, Joliet, Alton and Granite City face a grim, uncertain future.

Against this bleak background, the recent actions of U.S. Steel Corp. could sound the death knell for the basic steel industry. U.S. Steel has announced plans to import more than three million tons of cheap, subsidized steel slabs from the government-owned British Steel Co., basic steel-making operations will close at one steel plant (Fairless, Pa.), and basic steel-making operations could soon close across this country. That's because, in order to compete, other steelmakers will feel they have to make their unfinished and semifinished steel from iron ore in Great Britain or other countries which receive government subsidies.

As United-Steelworkers President Lloyd McBride points out: "In the long run, the United States would become a steel finisher only." Americans would be left to complete the finishing of bars, sheets, rail and pipes that were substantially made by other countries.

Besides throwing thousands of steelworkers out of work the proposed British steel deal would threaten our national security. We cannot maintain our national defense capability without the ability to produce steel from iron ore; and we run the risk of losing that capability if the British deal goes through. We would never have survived World War II without the steel we needed to manufacture trucks and weapons, and transport them within our country and from here to the battlefields.

Given U.S. Steel's previous loud opposition to dependence on steel imports and to unfair competition from abroad, the deal with the British is brazen hypocrisy. It is little wonder that other companies in the clubby little group of major steelmakers have broken ranks with U.S. Steel and have joined the steelworkers in condemnation of U.S. Steel.

If the deal goes through, however, companies such as Bethlehem and Inland Steel may soon join the bandwagon. The company's Pittsburgh Steel has begun negotiating to import 300,000 tons of Brazilian steel.

Unfortunate, U.S. Steel is now planning another action that will have an immediate, harmful effect right here. The company's recent actions indicate that it will not build a long-promised rail mill at the South Works Plant in South Chicago. Instead of expanding production at the South Works Plant, U.S. Steel now seems ready to close it.

What is the background of this callous decision? For years, the steel industry said it needed tax breaks to buy modern equipment, U.S.

Steel got its tax breaks and used the money to buy Marathon Oil Company.

Last year, U.S. Steel said it would build a rail mill at Chicago's South Works only if it got wage concessions from workers, tax concessions from the state and partial relief from pollution enforcement. U.S. Steel got what it asked for and now is ready to break its word. If U.S. Steel fails to build the rail mill and closes the South Works Plant, it will be guilty of contempt for the public. Closure of the South Works will inflict even more hardship on a community which is already reeling from the closure of Wisconsin Steel and layoffs at nearby Republic Steel.

When we compare the U.S. Steel phase-out of South Works with its $6 billion purchase of Marathon Oil, one conclusion is inevitable: U.S. Steel executives will spend billions to save their own jobs, while destroying the jobs of workers and picking the pockets of the taxpayers.

Today, I am proposing several important steps, with two goals: to stop the immediate threat from U.S. Steel and to revive the American steel industry.

I am calling on the Secretary of Commerce to use his powers under the Trade Expansion Law of 1982 to investigate the proposed arrangement with British Steel Co., to determine if it will harm national security. The law allows him to recommend to the president that imports be halted by presidential action, if they "threaten to impair national security." The law interprets national defense requirements broadly to include "human resources, products, raw material and other supplies and services essential to the national defense," and therefore, gives the president substantial justification to halt the deal.

Congress should eliminate the tax breaks that steel companies get for buying up non-steel companies and shutting down their steel plants. Taxpayers' money should no longer be used to allow U.S. Steel to buy Marathon Oil, or to help National Steel to buy Financial Corp., or to help Armco Steel buy and F. Industries, which manufactures tape products.

Congress and state governments can help stimulate the use of steel by providing funds for long-overdue repairs in our national transportation infrastructure. The Department of Transportation for miles of our bridges need repair, and thousands of miles of railroad tracks need to be replaced. More than 8,000 miles of our interstate highway system need repair, so our cars and trucks aren't ruined or our safety threatened. One-quarter of our country's bus and subway systems need to be replaced.

These are repairs that require vast amounts of steel. They are repairs that need to be made and are only made more expensive by delay. All these needed repairs merely underscore the fact that steel remains the key to our future, just as it was to our past.

It is foolish to pretend there is a choice between high tech and basic industries such as steel. In fact, these industries complement each other.

Just as high tech industries are housed in buildings which use steel, America's steel-making process can be made more applicable by use of high tech machinery. At Argonne Laboratory, a government-assisted project is using laser beams to test alloys while they are heating in an electric furnace, a project which can save steelmakers millions of dollars. There is no shortage of advanced steel technology on the shelf, but they don't do us any good there. Only 30 percent of our basic steel is produced by continuous casters, while Japan almost all basic steel is done by this method.

No shortage of advanced steel write-offs for going out of the steel business, we will lose the vital competition against other industrialized countries. We will also lose the essential basic steel-making capacity, and thus guarantee our role as a world leader.

$15 million budgeted for instruction

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Instructional cost is listed as $15,044,846 in the final 1983-84 Granite City school budget, making it the highest element in the $27,108,727 total.

The new annual budget allocates $23,153,332 for the education fund, $1,000,000 for operations, building and maintenance (building fund), $1,425,400 for transportation and $624,995 for the municipal retirement fund.

Budgeting of $23,153,332 for education involves $15,665,346 salaries, $13,679,629 employee benefits, $806,205 purchased and indirect costs, $1,334,550 supplies and materials, $673,000 capital outlay, $303,433 tuition (for students with physical or mental impairment, maladjusted pupils and early childhood classes) and $1,477,849 other charges (including $775,000 interest on tax anticipation warrants).

The building budget lists $497,300 salaries, $61,300 benefits, $329,000 purchased services, $453,000 materials, $514,000 outlay and $45,000 other costs (including $10,000 interest).

Transportation lists $1,285,400 purchased services, $120,000 materials and $20,000 other. Municipal retirement costs are $659,695 employee benefits and $25,000 other.

In increasing its real estate tax levy from $8.917 per $100 in 1982 to $9.067 in 1983, the district has estimated that existing assessment of $258,357 will rise in value next May to $289,499,209. If it does not, all of the levy will be extended.

Complicating factors in the new education budget are unknown unemployment costs of honorably dismissed employees, the amount of unused earned absences (severance pay) that will be requested by the dismissed staff, which of the employed staff will request total pay on the 20th payroll before the end of the fiscal year, and the amount of unemployment compensation that will be paid.

Borrowing needs by June 30, 1984, could be as much as $9,326,352, resulting in part from a need to budget $20,929 paid in 1983-84 for teacher early retirement costs for the 1982-83 year and a potential need to pay out $659,766 in unemployment absences for the dismissed staff, also a 1982-83 cost.

District Nine budgeted $193,249 for 1983-84 unemployment costs that may be needed for the dismissed staff; the district is self-insured.

These three items total $1,373,886 for a potential rise of $1,669,352 in borrowing.

Otherwise, we would only show an increase of a possible need to borrow an added $295,466 due to prior budgetary constraints.

Finance Director Norman Owca has commented.

The education fund's actual budget shows a potential deficit of $1,123,485, including $500,000 in contingency accounts which the schools do not plan to spend.

Other cutbacks of about $400,000 below budgeted amounts may bring the schools within $100,000 of $200,000 of a revenue-spending balance. If this occurs, the district will have decreased its budget needs by about $3,900,000 below 1982-83 while continuing to offer about the same educational programs and not increasing the $3.45 school tax rate.

The hope for a near-balance is contingent on District Nine receiving a delayed state aid payment of $793,098 in June 1984. Maximum authorized rates per $100 valuation in Granite City are $2.35 education, 37.5 cents building fund, 12 cents transportation, five cents life safety fund and five cents working cash fund, a total for these five accounts of $3.16. All are being used fully.

Taxation as needed is allowed in some of the other funds. With $0.75 cents for municipal retirement and 9.75 cents for tort immunity, the 1982 total school rate (for 1983 collection) was $3.45.

Projecting 1983 rates (for 1984 collection) of 19.6 cents for retirement and 10.9 cents for tort immunity, the schools foresee another total of $3.45; the 1.15 cent added for lawsuits will be offset by 1.15 cent less for pensions, made possible by the staff reductions.

The Board of Education sets each year's budget and levy. Tax rates are determined by the county clerk after new assessments are set by assessors and the Board of Review.

Early in 1983, to permit second-year tax borrowing, the board enacted an initial levy total of $9,372,046, now revised upward.

Breakdowns of the 1982 actual levy, 1983 original levy and 1983 amended levy, in that order, show:

Education $6,591,276, $4,361,500 and $7,382,230. Building $609,381, $1,023,790 and $1,085,622. Transportation $310,177, $327,000 and $347,399. Retirement $536,344, $335,000 and $467,418. Life safety and working cash, $129,240 each, $136,500 each and $147,500 each. Tort immunity $252,019, $251,116 and $135,354.

Considering the size of the debt and the interest that must be paid on it, the school board regards its levy increase as being "of benefit to taxpayers in the long term."

The board left the transportation budget of $1,425,400 and the retirement fund budget of $624,995 the same as the amended tentative amounts announced in August.

Instead of $20,159,868 in August, the board budgeted $23,153,332 in late September for education. Rather than $1,849,699, the building budget was set at $1,000,000. Net changes from a month earlier were a boost of $2,990,463 for education and a rise of $50,601 in the building fund.

In the 1982-83 school year ending June 30, the final budget amounts and actual expenditures were: education $25,930,424 and $25,489,897; building $1,975,900 and $1,423,150; transportation $1,306,400 and $1,298,062; and municipal retirement $711,995 and $633,253.

Of the aggregate 1983-84 budget of $27,108,727, a total of $15,044,846 relates to instruction costs—$15,028,515 education and $16,331 retirement.

Support services of $10,310,147 consist of $6,447,583 education, $1,855,300 building, $1,405,400 transportation and $581,864 retirement.

Community services of $11,851 include $10,431 education and $1,500 retirement.

Non-program charges are $376,803, all in the education fund. Debt service (interest) is $775,000 in the education fund and $10,000 in the building fund, a total of $785,000.

And contingencies amount to $580,000—$500,000 education, $35,000 building, $20,000 transportation and $25,000 retirement.

Under federal guidelines, farmers will be able to apply immediately for emergency farm loans from the Farmers Home Administration. Purpose of the below-market rate program is to enable disaster-affected farmers to buy seeds for the next planting season and avoid bankruptcy.

Farmers must meet several qualifications to receive disaster loans. They are:

—The person requesting the loan must be an established farmer operator in the county named under the emergency announcement.

—The farm operator must be a U.S. citizen of good character based on ability to repay.

—The farmer must have 30 percent loss of similar crops.

—The farmer must reveal if suitable credit can be obtained from other sources.

Those who cannot get other credit would be eligible for 8 percent loans, while those revealing other credit sources would be able to receive 13 percent loans.

—Evidence of adequate repayment ability must be shown.

—There must be adequate loan security shown.

—The 11 counties not acted on yet are Boone, Carroll, DeKalb, Jo Daviess, Kane, Kankakee, Lake, Madison, Ogle, Whiteside and Will.

This county a farm disaster area for '83

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John Block has declared 72 Illinois counties, including Madison County, as federal disaster areas.

This brought to 91 the number of counties where farmers can be eligible for federal aid as a result of the agricultural drought this summer. St. Clair also was in Monday's list.

"This summer will go down as one of the worst growing seasons in the generation. Losses have been as high as 80 percent of the corn crop in some counties," Gov. James R. Thompson said.

He said the U.S. needs more information on the remaining 11 counties not declared disaster areas before it makes a determination that might make all of Illinois eligible for federal aid.

Incident ends with 2 arrests

Two men were arrested at 2:15 a.m. Saturday at 14th Street and Grand Avenue, where a disturbance occurred that ended with the involvement of officers from both the Madison and Granite City police departments.

A Madison officer first alleged seeing a man and woman arguing at that location, but was told everything was alright upon questioning the pair. The officer also learned the man had been in a fight with another man in a nearby tavern, an employee said.

About 10 minutes later, the Madison officer returned to find about 10 people attempting to break up a fight at the south side of Boskoff's.

Richard Lee Niehaus Jr., 22, of 1115 McCambridge Ave., Madison, allegedly was identified as the person causing problems and the situation was under control when William Wayne Knuha, 26, of St. Louis, formerly of Madison, alleged jumped in front of the officer, defending Niehaus.

Knuha reportedly became loud and would not back away from the officer. He was alleged to have shouted obscenities and shook his hand at the officer.

While being placed under arrest, Niehaus allegedly pulled away and a Granite City officer was required to help in putting Niehaus on the ground and handcuffing him.

Knuha allegedly started interfering with the arrest and he also had in force to the ground and handcuffed.

Niehaus was charged with resisting arrest and disorderly conduct. He was released at 7:55 a.m. Saturday upon posting a $204 cash bond to appear in the Granite City court Oct. 26.

Knuha was charged with interfering with a police officer and disorderly conduct. He was released at 2:15 a.m. Saturday after posting a $204 cash bond also to report Oct. 26 at the Granite City court.

In a court appearance at 2 p.m. Monday, Tinnon pleaded innocent to the charge and was released on recognizance.

$90,000 fire loss Sunday as heater explodes

Robert Malotki suffered minor burns to the right shoulder blade area at 11:55 a.m. Sunday when a gas heater exploded as he was attempting to relight it.

Fire, which resulted from the blast caused an estimated $90,000 damage to a brick duplex home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Thomas at 3105 Yale Drive and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Malotki at 3107 Yale.

Granite City firefighters were at the scene for two hours and returned when the blaze flared up again at 2:40 p.m. Sunday.

They listed $400,000 loss to contents and $50,000 damage to the structure. Each occupant's side was heavily damaged, firemen said.

The duplex includes the main floor and basements. Interior walls burned yesterday along with mattresses, pillows, carpeting, flooring and furniture.

Passengers arrested and charged with illegal parking were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Sparrow, 21, of 2660 Edison Ave., John J. Yurkovich, 21, of 2928 Faith Ave., and a 16-year-old youth from Golden, Colo. All were released after posting bonds or their driver's license.

DRAG RACING ARRESTS

Drag racing and reckless driving charges were filed last week against both Ronald Barnett, 23, of 2129 Bryan Ave., and Dennis McKee, 19, of 2020 Missouri Ave. Barnett also was charged with driving with a suspended license and fleeing from Granite City police.

The Finance Committee of the Madison County Board voted 4-1 Thursday to ask that the board add $12,489 Oct. 12 to the juvenile detention home budget.

With the 1983 fiscal year ending Nov. 30, Darrell McGibany, superintendent, has estimated that the home will run out of funds Oct. 14, perhaps forcing the state to be closed.

State Attorney Ron W. Weber said last week the juvenile home cannot be closed. If necessary, he would seek a court order to keep it open, regardless of its financial status, Weber commented.

Board members generally have resisted efforts by various government departments to obtain supplemental appropriations, noting that the county has had to tighten its operations due to an imbalance between revenue and expenditures. The finance committee has been asked to consider the county's request for a year ago.

McGibany and Chief Circuit Judge J. Andrew Madison told the committee that it might be costlier to close the home temporarily than to provide extra operating funds.

Because money could run out several days before the next regular County Board meeting, the superintendent said he may request a special board meeting to consider the finance committee's proposal. Even if $12,489 is provided, he says he will have to defer $6,000 in bills to next year.

Madison County officials have tried to utilize federal revenue sharing funds for capital projects (construction of facilities and purchase of major equipment) rather than for personnel, so that the county does not become dependent on a federal program that could be canceled.

An exception may be sought in this case. The juvenile home will transfer to operating revenue some of the shared federal revenue left over from capital improvements at the home this year.

More than $12,000 was saved from the advance allocation when an electronic security system was purchased.

Committee Member Fred Dalton opposed the recommendation, in the belief that approval would prompt other departments to seek similar financial relief.

Dalton suggested a court order for the appropriation, but Judge Matieson said new procedural rules are in effect and could delay the process 30 to 60 days. The rules apply to judicial orders issued to non-court branches of government.

Finance Chairman William Little said McGibany's staff appears to have tried harder than some county agencies in securing spending.

Favoring supplemental funding were Little, Alan Dunstan, Rudolph Papa and Donald McLean.

All of the committee members said the 1984 budget may be as difficult to balance as this year's budget. The County Board in September rejected supplementing the recorder of deeds budget.

The auto appeared to be out of control, it was alleged, and crossed the roadway, striking the car.

BURGALAR RUNS AWAY AS OWNER RETURNS

When Anna Palisgrove, 2311 Pontoon Road, returned home at 11:30 p.m. Sunday, a burglar had broken in through a back door and was running away when she returned.

He was in his 20s, 5-foot tall, thin build, with short dark brown hair.

Bedrooms had been ransacked and a list of missing items is being prepared. The intruder had broken a window.

RAIL THEFT ARRESTS

Two North Granite boys, aged 15 and 15, were charged Thursday with theft and property damage after being linked to a Aug. 21 theft of railroad flatcars and track ties at the 22nd Street railroad crossing, the McGibany said.

Unidentified persons broke the window on the west side of the building to gain entrance sometime last week.

Beef up ballot boxes' security

A package of vote fraud legislation that beefs up ballot box security, stiffens the penalty for voting more than once in an election, and clarifies requirements election judges must meet when dealing with certain types of ballots has been signed into law by Gov. James R. Thompson. Most of the bills go into effect Jan. 1, 1984.

"The 1982 election was vivid proof that Illinois election laws needed strengthening to prevent widespread vote fraud."

"Long after polls closed, indictments and newspaper articles detailed the actions of persons who attempted to change an election. These bills will help prevent recurrence of some of that fraud," the governor said.

Filament tape is to be used in securing ballot boxes that cannot be locked by any other means. Current Election Code standards require only transparent tape to seal ballot boxes.

House Bill 1992 also says that the filament tape must be wrapped around the ballot box lengthwise and crisscross at least twice each way. Once the votes are tabulated at a central counting station, they are to be returned to the box in which they were transported, using the same sealing procedure, and then stored.

Voting twice will be considered a class three felony with a prison term of two to five years for offenders. Previously, the crime carried a possible sentence of one to three years and was a class four felony.

HB 1983 clarifies procedures poll judges must follow to validate certain types of ballots used in a few Illinois counties.

Perforated ballots are used in Lake and DuPage counties, with votes for write-in candidates cast above the perforation. HB 1991 will require election judges to insert both halves of the ballot in a space set aside for their signature, correcting a problem with the validity of some ballots cast in 1982.

Many times last year, the top half of a ballot cast in those counties was discarded if it wasn't used.

Although judges were told to sign along the perforation, there were many cases of certification signatures being thrown out with the top half of the ballot, leaving the validity of the bottom half in doubt.

HB 2228 tightens post-election procedures by requiring election authority stations and offices to remain open for at least 12 hours after polls close or until all ballots from the precincts are returned in proper condition to the authority or the central counting station.

By requiring election authority offices to remain open until all ballots are returned, and establishing a set procedure for handing over ballots to a main vote counting office, greater responsibility and accountability will be injected into the process, the governor asserted.

High school principals and assistant principals will register eligible students to vote. HB 751 limits registration by principals, who will technically be deputy registrars, to May and September. Paperwork must be sent to the county clerk in seven days.

HB 1989 expands the scope of the discovery recount process by making state discovery laws apply to primary and runoff elections. It also allows examination of voter affidavits and applications for ballots in discovery proceedings.

HB 1994 will block public employment of anyone convicted of destroying or forging election materials for at least five years after that person has completed the sentence. The governor made minor changes in a companion bill, HB 1995, to clarify the intent; it will be returned to the legislature for its consideration.

HB 1237 eliminates a state requirement that petition signatures can be obtained

WINTER FORECAST. Moving in closer for the "low-down" on the upcoming winter from a woolly bear caterpillar is Janet Adams of Granite City, a senior at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville majoring in mass communications. Communicating with the caterpillar proved to be difficult, however, and Miss Adams was unable to give any results of her interview, so it's anybody's guess what winter will bring.

State's mortgage program defended

In response to his inquiry about September's disbursements of funds, the Illinois Housing Development Authority has told State Rep. Sam W. Wolf of Granite City that the state's new "Affordable Mortgage Program" was an overwhelming success.

The byproducts of that success resulted in many disappointed citizens, the IHDA conceded.

Director J. W. Kiley said, "Following a highly successful bond sale that enabled IHDA to make mortgage loans at a rate significantly lower than two other states engaged in the same kind of program at the same time, virtually all of the available funds were spoken for in less than 48 hours. The economic development component of the program will be especially beneficial."

"About 1,100 to 1,300 families across the state will be taking advantage of these 10.55 percent, 30-year mortgage loans through 36 participating banks and thrift institutions."

In addition, because up to 20 percent of the funds will be going to new construction, 1,000 new jobs in the home building field will be created, stimulating that portion of the state's economy.

It is anticipated that, based on results of the previous single-family program, the average family income of buyers will be $26,000 and the average purchase price will be $50,000 on a statewide basis.

"The speed with which the money was used up is a testimony to the great need for such a program, but it resulted in some ill will on the part of the many citizens who were unable to participate in the program," Kiley told Rep. Wolf.

"I would like to share with you some of the facts that led to the situation in case you hear from your constituents with questions about the matter."

"First, when we surveyed banks and thrift institutions to determine their interest, we received applications for $700 million. Because of federal limitations on our bonding authority in this case, we could issue only $68.5 million, less than one-tenth of the obvious demand. For every person who obtained a mortgage, 10 were disappointed."

"Second, because of the vital economic development component of the program, up to 60 percent of the available funds were reserved by home builders and Realtors for newly constructed homes, which will be sold to qualified applicants at the same low mortgage rate."

"It is unfortunate that excessive hopes were built up in some people even though our announcements specified both the number of mortgages that would be available and the amount of the reservation for new construction."

"It is also unfortunate that some of the participating lending institutions probably jumped the gun by taking appointments for mortgage loans in advance of the Sept. 1 starting point, thus disappointing many people who called at the start of business on that day and were told the money was gone. We will examine each and every loan application that comes in to determine whether applications were actually taken prematurely; if so, they will be rejected."

"Finally, the question of conflicts of interest has been raised by some scenarios relating to employees of the IHDA getting the number of mortgages they have an equity interest in."

"Please be assured that no employees of the Authority or of the participating institutions will be permitted to get loans, eliminating any appearance of impropriety."

"The conflict of interest is determined, wherein a bank has an equity interest in a housing development in which units are being purchased with IHDA loans, the application may be rejected."

"There may, however, be certain mitigating circumstances in cases where a bank's participation has a demonstrable public purpose. These will be examined carefully, on an individual basis, before any approval."

"We must not permit the difficulties experienced here to overshadow the tremendous benefit of this program, both for individuals and for the state's economy."

DISORDERLY CHARGE

After being called twice to an address in the 3200 block of Maryville Road last week on complaints of a man allegedly banging on walls and ceiling, officers arrested Jeffrey L. Badgett, 25, of 3239 Maryville Road, who had been warned earlier, reports said. Badgett was charged with disorderly conduct and released upon posting a $52 cash bond.

The annual open house will be conducted from noon to 5 p.m. in observation of Fire Prevention Week Oct. 3-5.

Fire equipment will be displayed and demonstrated. Firefighters will be on hand to give tours and answer questions. Group tours are being welcomed by the department by calling 931-2655.

Smoke the Bear and a clown will greet those attending. Refreshments will be served. Gifts will be given to each child attending.

Arrest youth on burglary warrant

Marty W. Sexton, 17, of 2731 Warren Ave., was recognized by an off-duty police officer as the person being sought on an active warrant alleging burglary, and was arrested at 12:15 p.m. Tuesday at 27th and State Streets.

The warrant, issued through the Madison County state's attorney's office in an informational document, charged Sexton with burglary in connection with his alleged entry into the home of Deltha Cigelske, 1310 Kirkpatrick Homes, at 4:30 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 24.

At the time of the initial report, nothing appeared to be missing from the apartment, where a trash can reportedly was placed under a bathroom window by the intruder, who forced open a screen and raised the window to gain entry.

A relative of Mrs. Cigelske, who was asleep on the couch, reported awakening to find a man standing over her, holding a tee shirt and shoes in his hand. She yelled at the man to get out of the house and struck the intruder with her hand. He then fled through the front door, she told police.

Sexton allegedly was identified as the intruder.

Enters pleas to 3 charges

John E. Hakkarainen, 26, of 3100 block of Kirkpatrick Homes, pleaded guilty to a charge of battery in the Granite City court last week and was fined $135.

He pleaded innocent, however, to criminal trespass to property and resisting arrest charges, also arising from the same incident, and was released on a $10,000 recognizance bond.

Hakkarainen was arrested after he allegedly was seen running from the rear door of the apartment of Joyce Broyles, 3108 Kirkpatrick Homes, who claimed he had caused problems at her home, struck her and refused to leave. Mrs. Broyles suffered small cuts to her hands and had a red mark on her neck, reports said.

Hakkarainen reportedly returned and declined to leave when asked to by an officer. He became combative and minimal force was required to place him under arrest, it was alleged.

Regional College Fair Wednesday at SIU-C

Representatives from colleges and universities in Illinois, Kentucky, Indiana and Missouri will be on hand to discuss their schools during a Regional College Fair on Wednesday, Oct. 5, at Southern Illinois University-Carbondale (SIU-C).

The fair is designed to give area high school and community college students the chance to learn about colleges and universities they might be interested in attending, according to the SIU-C Office of Admissions and Records, which is sponsoring the annual event.

The fair, which will be from 10 a.m. to noon in the Student Center, is open to the public at no charge. "Most students don't have the time or resources to travel to all colleges and universities they are interested in," said Perry, representative of the SIU-C Office of Admissions. "By bringing in representatives of all the schools, we are giving area students the opportunity to get some first hand information and make decisions about their educational futures."

Fairgoers can get information on academic programs, admissions requirements, housing policies, extracurricular activities and financial aid opportunities. State-supported Illinois universities scheduled to participate are Eastern Illinois, Illinois State, SIU at Edwardsville, Western Illinois, the University of Illinois at Springfield, Southern Illinois, Illinois State, SIU at Carbondale, SIU at Macomb, SIU at Mount Carmel, SIU at Shawnee, SIU at Springfield, SIU at Taylorville, SIU at Urbana, SIU at Vandalia, SIU at Woodland, SIU at Yorkville, SIU at Macomb, SIU at Mount Carmel, SIU at Shawnee, SIU at Springfield, SIU at Taylorville, SIU at Urbana, SIU at Vandalia, SIU at Woodland, SIU at Yorkville.

Steel developments

foreign competition and with growing use of steel substitutes, Weirton will add galvanizing to its product line.

In a transaction about twice as large as the Weirton sale, Dallas-headquartered LTV is ready to buy Cleveland-based Republic Steel for $770 million.

Although the merger raises some anti-trust questions, it conforms to the federal administration's stand that steelmakers should solve their own problems rather than looking to Washington for extensive import controls.

Authorities say that despite much talk of reindustrialization in America, the actual pattern seems to be deindustrialization, with much less emphasis on "smokestack" activity. Affected along with the automotive and steel industries are machine tools, mining, foundries and industrial equipment producers.

Steelmakers are having to contend not only with foreign competition, much of it subsidized, but also with a severe domestic recession. Their market in 1982 was described by many as the worst since the 1930s Depression.

Although many steel plants in the U.S. are relatively obsolete, National Steel has invested heavily in ultra-modern continuous casters and other "state of the art" technology and processes at such mills as Granite City Steel and giant Great Lakes Steel.

Propose tax cuts

wide unitary taxation of "multinationals, and the state investment tax credit. These sophisticated loopholes allow multi-national giants to manipulate their accounting statements and avoid state income taxes, at the expense of other taxpayers."

Quinn cited as an example, General Electric, which he said earned profits of $1.6 billion in 1981 and $1.8 billion in 1982, yet paid no federal or Illinois income taxes in those years because of the tax loopholes targeted by the Taxpayer Relief Act.

The Taxpayer Relief Act is sponsored by Rep. Daniel M. Pierce (D-Highland Park), chairman of the Illinois House Revenue Committee.

Coalition for Political Honesty volunteers will seek to place advisory referendums urging passage of the Taxpayer Relief Act on city and county ballots throughout Illinois for the March 20, 1984, primary, he said.

Quinn said the same technique was used by the coalition in municipal elections last April to promote legislation creating a Citizen Utility Board (CUB) to represent consumers in utility rate-making hearings. After 111 Illinois communities overwhelmingly voted to establish CUBs, the legislature and governor responded by enacting the bill into law.

"These advisory referendums will give voters a direct opportunity to vote for tax fairness and tax relief," Quinn said. "Illinois consumers will never be able to match the money and clout of multi-national corporations in Springfield, but we can defeat them at the ballot box and speak to our legislators in a language they understand — the language of votes."

Quinn also said the Taxpayer Relief Act would lead to the creation of more jobs. He cited a study by M.I.T. showing that two-thirds of all new jobs are created by small businesses. "Virtually every business in the state gets served by this unfair utility tax, so very few benefit from the special interest tax loopholes this legislation would close."

Quinn also said the Taxpayer Relief Act would increase consumer spending, and thus job creation, by placing money in the hands of families who will stimulate the state's economy by spending their additional cash on everyday needs.

Quinn noted that consumer buying power was hurt earlier this year when the Illinois General Assembly raised taxes by $1 billion. "The choice is simple," Quinn said. "Should the state continue to spend $300 million a year in tax giveaways for profitable multi-national corporations that aren't paying their share, or should we create jobs and provide tax relief to the businesses and consumers who really need help."

Anyone interested in the Taxpayer Relief Act may contact Pat Quinn at the Coalition for Political Honesty, Post Office Box 708, Oak Park, Ill., 60303, or call 1-312-443-5540.

EOC work week

should have been aware of the recommended cuts in hours of employees.

Morelli speculated that Williams probably would not have implemented the cuts without consulting with some members of the board. "I am sure he acted after consulting with some on the board," he stated.

He defended Williams' right to cut the hours of the employees, saying, "It appears to be an administrative function. The administration can dictate the number of hours and so forth."

It is not known whether the treatment of employees was responsible for a bomb scare at the Godfrey EOC office before 10:30 a.m. Friday, during a cheese and surplus commodities giveaway.

Hundreds of persons were rushed away from the building when a telephone caller made a derogatory remark about EOC people and said a bomb would go off at 10:30 a.m.

"We immediately called the police and they advised us very quickly to move everyone as far from the building as humanly possible. They arrived in minutes and checked the building and some employees' cars. They said we had done the correct thing," Morelli noted, adding that no bomb was found.

Marvin Dale Berry

3:40 p.m. Wednesday when he pointed a handgun at two guards and escaped in their government car.

The office of the St. Louis circuit attorney issued warrants Thursday charging Berry with first-degree robbery, armed criminal action and escaping custody.

Berry threatened to kill his federal guards and told them he would not be captured alive. St. Louis police said.

The escape was quoted as saying the only reason he decided not to kill the two was that they were unarmed.

Authorities pursued a bus headed east through Illinois on the night of his escape but he was not on the vehicle when it was halted.

Rules book for Pontoon police

An ordinance setting up rules and regulations for the Pontoon Beach Police Department was approved unanimously by the village board last week. Police Chief Chet Ballew said the police department had been operating without such a set of rules since its inception.

The ordinance was modeled after the code now in effect for the Madison Police Department. "I had a problem coming up with a code, so the police committee and I decided to review the codes other municipalities use. We decided on Madison's," said Ballew.

Ballew said the manual will include a code of conduct, a dress code, matters of discipline and the chain of command in the department. "It's a comprehensive manual. It's about 15 or 16 pages long."

The Pontoon Beach Police Department includes the chief, five police officers, three full-time dispatchers and two part-time dispatchers. Also at the meeting, Bennett's vote was necessary to break a tie to pass an ordinance which changed the name of Gaslight Walk to Oakmont Drive. According to Hennessey, the street's name change was requested by Jim Green, developer of the Oakmont Shopping Center.

Police Chief Ballew said Gaslight Walk had been picked to be called Oakmont Drive because it "makes an L-shape around the shopping center."

Other business included a discussion about Green's developing company refusing to brick the homes being built on Georgetown Drive. The first homes that were built on the street were bricked because the area was thought to be covered by a covenant which required bricking on the residences. According to Bennett, the board found out later that the street was not covered under the covenant. Despite that, Green agreed to brick the rest of the homes to keep them consistent with the others on the street.

However, Bennett said Green informed him last week, that he has changed his mind and will not brick the homes. "He gave us his word, and he said his word was his bond," Bennett countered.

Hennessey said the village "would be hard-pressed to do anything about the non-bricking." He said he felt the homeowners in the area could have a case against the developer. "It's more of a private sector problem than a municipality problem."

He said courts have not ruled favorably in the past for zoning requirements which were based solely on the value of aesthetics. Also two resolutions were passed which gave the Madison County Sewer District the authority to work on the sewer system in Pontoon Beach and also gave it ownership of the easements.

Granite City (Ill.) Press-Record, Monday, October 3, 1983 - 11

"We've been in the sewer district for three years now, so these resolutions should have been passed a long time ago," said Hennessey.

CHECKING THE ROCKET. Marvin Barton and Ron Lybarger of O'Brien Tire Co., Granite City, were among the thousands of independent tire dealers and rereaders attending the 53rd annual convention and trade show of the National Tire Dealers and Rereaders Association in St. Louis Sept. 22 to 25. They are shown at a replica of the Budweiser Rocket, the first manned land vehicle to break the sound barrier, reaching a speed of 739.66 mph under the power of a 48,000 horsepower rocket engine.

Seedling trees, shrubs offered by state DOC

Persons who want seedling trees or shrubs for conservation planting may order them from the Department of Conservation beginning now, according to Al Mickelson, Forest Resources and Natural Heritage Division chief.

More than 20 species and three specialized packets with seedlings are selected for attracting wildlife, attracting songbirds and for planting windbreaks will be available to the public this year.

Seedlings offered to the public are grown at our two state nurseries in Mason and Union counties," Mickelson said. "We have an obligation to grow seedlings for conservation plantings on state properties, but each year we produce more seedlings than we need, and these surplus seedlings are offered to the public at minimal cost."

Seedlings purchased from DOC must be used for conservation plantings, Mickelson explained. They may be used for forestation projects, soil erosion control, wildlife habitat purposes and they may not be removed or resold with the roots attached.

A minimum order is one packet or 250 seedlings. A landowner will need approximately one-quarter of an acre to plant the minimum order.

Cost of the seedlings varies from $14 to $31 per 250 plants, delivered via United Parcel to a specific address. Payment is due when the plants are ordered, Mickelson said, but the plants will be shipped only in the spring of the year, when conditions are best for planting.

Seedling trees and shrubs vary somewhat in size, depending upon species, but generally have diameters less than that of a wooden pencil and are about 12 inches in total length.

Price lists, order forms and further information may be obtained by contacting your nearest DOC office, or by writing: Department of Conservation, Division of Forest Resources and Natural Heritage, 524 S. Second St., Springfield, Ill. 62706, telephone 1-217-782-2361.

Venice school budgets up 8 percent

By DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

A budget for the 1983-84 year in the Venice School District amounting to $1,553,360, an increase over the previous year of $121,559, was adopted by the Venice Board of Education last week.

Increases are shown in the Educational Fund, which is $1,219,950 this year as compared to $1,185,591 last year, an increase of $36,641.

Other funds, listing the current figures first and last year's total in parenthesis, are: operating, building and maintenance, $238,000 ($142,000), an increase of $96,100; bonds and interest, $36,800 ($25,750), up $11,050; transportation, $37,200 ($34,550), down by $2,750; municipal retirement, $11,300 ($22,910), down by $11,610.

The combined budget for Venice-Lincoln Technical Center and the Venice public schools totals $2,396,310, an increase of $375,289 over last year's appropriation of $2,021,021.

Although the two budgets are combined, the adult vocational school is financed with federal and state funds, but administered by the Venice School Board.

The Venice-Lincoln Technical School budget this year totals $618,800, a decrease of $66,129.

Board members also approved resolutions to transfer funds, including $15,000 from Education Fund to transportation Fund as a reimbursement, and a total of $43,500 as reimbursement from the Education Fund to the Building Fund (fire and safety).

Also, $4.82 from Title IV Fund to Education Fund to close the account; $1,200 from Education Fund to Chapter I Fund; $13,000 from Education Fund to the technical center and a repayment from the technical center of $13,000 to the Education Fund.

In other business, the board accepted the resignation of Carolyn Darst a high school TMI (trainable mentally handicapped students) teacher and named Ricky Everage, a staff member, to serve as the Illinois-Gateway coverage representative. Superintendent of Schools

Robert Vickers informed the board members the school district received a check in the amount of $167,000 from Madison County treasurer's office as tax payment from Union Electric.

The board members approved a suggestion to make an inventory of hand instruments stored in the school basement, in preparation to either selling or leasing the instruments to another school.

The board also agreed to charge a $1 admission fee for the girl's volleyball games, which previously was 50 cents.

In conjunction with a petition signed by junior and senior high school students and faculty members, the board also agreed to change the grading system from a numerical listing to the traditional alphabet system of A, B, C, D and F.

A discussion was held on securing Life Safety Bonds from a local lending institution and a revised Superintendent Vickers to send letters requesting information on interest rates, with a final decision to be made at a later meeting. They also discussed the purchase of a newer bus, noting the one in use now is a 1973 vintage. Board members agreed to advertise for bids on a bus to seat 60 passengers, preferably a 1980 model.

SIUE track coach to address group

The conference will get underway Wednesday with opening remarks by Chicago Mayor Harold Washington.

Flamer has been selected to discuss the National Collegiate Athletic Association's rule changes and the black athlete, beginning at 4 p.m.

Joining Flamer on the panel will be Dick Versace, head basketball coach at Bradley University, Steve Morgan of the NCAA rules committee, and David Greenwood, stand-out forward for the Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association.

Officer of East St. Louis, Gwen Jones, deputy director of the E.E.O.C. for the Department of the Army, Gregory Lewis of the Chicago Fire Department, and Shelvin Hall, who is from the legal division of the Department of Human Rights.

Study for museum in East St. Louis urged

Senator Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) and Alan J. Dixon (D-Ill.) have offered an amendment to the 1984 Interior Appropriations bill which passed the Senate last week that provides for a National Park Service study of the feasibility of establishing a museum of American culture and anthropology in East St. Louis.

"The House included $100,000 in the 1984 Interior Appropriations Bill for the Smithsonian Institution to study the feasibility of a museum in East St. Louis," Percy and Dixon said.

"Because the National Park Service operates the Jefferson Expansion Memorial in St. Louis as a national historic site, we believe it is more appropriate for the National Park Service to conduct the study, rather than the Smithsonian."

Percy and Dixon pointed out the communities on both the Illinois and Missouri sides of the Mississippi River have long envisioned the establishment of a national memorial in East St. Louis, opposite the Gateway Memorial Arch, and, that the original plans for the Jefferson Expansion Memorial called for such a memorial in East St. Louis.

"Establishing a museum of American culture and anthropology in Illinois would constitute a significant step toward the completion of the original plans for the Jefferson Expansion Memorial," Percy and Dixon said.

"Supporters of this project contemplate a museum of national and international significance which would highlight the cultural, religious and ethnic heritage of our nation."

A Senate-House conference committee will now meet to iron out the differences in the two Interior Appropriation bills.

"One way or another, we're doing our best to see that this study is conducted," Percy said.

"The museum would contribute greatly to the plans for developing the Illinois bank of the Mississippi across from the Gateway Arch."

On The Gridiron

Trojans ground Eagles; first win in two years

By STEVE WHITWORTH
of the Press-Record

MADISON — It had been a long time coming for the Madison Trojans. Almost two years, in fact, since they had tasted victory on the gridiron. But, they used the hard running of Kelly Scrum and a tough defense to defeat the Columbia Eagles Friday night, 22-6.

"I've got one under my belt now," said a happy Don Smith, first-year coach of the Trojans. After three tough defeats, three games where his team lost by close scores, it had to be sweet to win in convincing fashion.

The game was not really as close as the score would seem to indicate. If it hadn't been for some Madison mistakes in the first half, it's doubtful that Columbia would have scored at all. The Trojan defense was intimidating, and the only thing that really stopped their offense was their own penalties.

Neither side was very impressive in the first half. The first two quarters were marred by penalties and fumbles. Madison held the ball for the first five minutes of the game, but their drive was quickly nullified by penalties. They eventually had to punt.

The Trojans flexed their muscles early on defense. Columbia passed, but failing to gain a first down on their initial possession.

After the punt, Madison's offense

"He's (Scrum) my best runner. He's also my best tackler, but I like to play him lightly on defense and let him run."

Don Smith
Trojan football coach

began to roll again from their own 35-yard line. Scrum, the reckless runner, ran four times for 27 yards on the drive. But, a holding penalty killed the drive, and a fourth-down pass attempt fell incomplete. Columbia took over on their own 40-yard line.

But, not for long. On the first play, Columbia coughed the ball up and Steve Petrosky recovered for the Trojans on the Columbia 42.

Once again, Madison fell into its pattern. Scrum would grind out yardage and the penalties would move the ball back. They got as close as the 5-yard line before a clipping call moved them back to the 24. Finally, with fourth and long on the Columbia 12, they fumbled to the Eagles again.

The Eagles, however, seemed intent on throwing away every break the Trojans gave them. Unbelievably, they again fumbled on their first play from scrimmage. This time, it was Jerry Lynn who gathered up the loose leather for Madison on the 18-yard line. "Columbia had a lot of fumbles," Smith said afterward, "but, I think we caused a lot of them. Leroy Latham, our nose guard, had a great game. He was in pressure on their center, and I think that contributed to their fumbling."

This time, it took the Trojans just four plays to finally cross the goal line. Scrum lugged the ball the final two yards to give Madison a 6-0 lead at 6:02 of the second quarter. Then, Scrum carried again on the two-point conversion, and Madison was up 8-0.

Columbia couldn't get over their fumble-lis. They promptly turned the ball over to the Trojans by fumbling the kickoff return. But, Madison hurt themselves with penalties and caught the fumble bug themselves. Darnell Marshall coughed it up and the Eagles fell on it with 3:38 remaining in the half.

Columbia managed to run a couple of plays before fumbling again. Shawn Brown recovered for Madison on the five yard line. Scrum scored on the next play at 2:38. Brown swept in on the keeper for the two-point conversion. The Trojan's 16-0 lead stood up at halftime.

In the second half, Columbia looked better. The Trojans held them on the first Eagle possession, forcing a punt. But, the Eagle defense stiffened up, and Madison turned the ball over on downs at the Columbia 46.

Columbia's only scoring drive of the game covered 54 yards in 2:10. Running back Brian Spurgeon was the Eagle workhorse, picking up 45 of those yards. The key play was a 31-yard romp to the Madison 7. From there, Quinn Albert carried for the TD. Columbia attempted to pass for the two-point conversion, but were foiled.

Columbia mounted another threat late in the third quarter, and drove as far as the Madison 31 before they were stopped on downs at 11:28 of the fourth quarter. But, Madison drove. Right back, Scrum carried for seven yards, then a penalty moved the Trojans back one play later. Quarterback Brown completed a pass to Fred Smith and Columbia was called for a face mask violation, moving the ball to the Eagle 45. After Avery Blockton carried for four yards, Marshall broke off a run of 41 yards for the final TD of the night. The two-point conversion attempt failed, but Madison led 22-6.

Columbia once again threatened, moving all the way to the Madison 10-yard line, but a fourth-down pass attempt fell incomplete. The Trojans ran out the clock and carried Coach Smith off the field in jubilation.

Smith had words of praise for Scrum, who racked up 123 yards rushing. "He's my best runner," said the winning coach. "He's also my best tackler, but I like to play him lightly on defense and let him run."

Smith also said his quarterback, Brown, did a good job, considering it was his first start at that position. But, most of all, Smith praised what he called his "pretty good defense."

That defense made some bone-rattling tackles which seemed to give some of the Columbia runners second thoughts about trying for any extra yardage. "We've been working on our tackling," Smith said, "and we're beginning to take a lot of pride in it. We used to do a lot of arm-tackling, but now we're getting our shoulders in there. When you do that, good things happen."

Warriors rebound to down Notre Dame

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor

GRANITE CITY — With two tough soccer games just days apart, Granite City High soccer coach Gene Baker knew it was going to be a difficult weekend for his Warrior kickers. And, when the Warriors lost to Collinsville on Thursday (see related story), that difficult weekend got considerably tougher as the Warriors prepared to meet Quincy Notre Dame, another Illinois powerhouse on Saturday.

The Warriors proved to be worthy of the state's top rating as they bounced back after the loss to Collinsville to defeat fourth rated Notre Dame Saturday 2-0 at the Gauntlet.

This was a good win for us," Baker began. "They're a good, well-coached team. I'm real happy with the way we played against them. We played awfully well the first half. This was an important win for us after Collinsville."

Baker said indeed it was an important win for the Warriors. It was important for the Warriors to come back with a win after Thursday's loss. But, too, the game had a personal importance to Baker. It was his 29th career win. In all probability, his 30th win will come tonight against Alton.

The Warriors travel to Alton to face the Redbirds for a 4 p.m. game. The game was rescheduled from Sept. 1 when the Warriors called the game off.

When the Warrior coach called the victory over Notre Dame important, he couldn't have been more right. The Warriors in the first half were Reis, a member of the national youth team. But, in the second half, Granite City's game deteriorated, which is more of a credit to Notre Dame and their persistence.

First, the first half. One minute and one second into the game, QND goalie Brent Kiek came down right in front of Sherid's shot, but was unable to smother it. After a scumish at the goal mouth, Matt Sheridan was Johnny-on-the-spot as he slapped a shot past Umissig to put the Warriors on top 1-0.

In the second quarter, at 32:37, the Warriors struck again. Troy Moore's second kick came down right in front of Notre Dame's goal. The shot was cleared to the right side. Right where Mike Houston was waiting. His strong leg shot blew right past Umissig.

Saturday's contest was a game of contrast in two halves. Granite City totally dominated the first half, limiting the Raiders to a mere two shots on goal. Granite City managed 10.

In the scoreless second half, however, the roles were reversed. The Raiders began to come around, playing like the team worthy of their 9-2 record coming into the contest.

They did everything right. Everything but put the ball in the net. They outshot Granite City 6-5. The shots attempted were threatening, on goal. Had it not been for Joe Blasina and fullback Matt Sheridan, Reis and company would have surely pierced the Warrior goal plane.

But the Warriors held on for the win and the shutout, which was an important shot in the arm after the defense surrendered three goals to Collinsville two days before.

After tonight's game in Alton, which begins at 4 p.m., the Warriors begin preparation for the Tournament of Champions which begins on Wednesday. The Warriors, now 9-1-1 on the season, face Melville in the opening round. (See related story.)

In addition to the those highly rated soccer schools which will be competing in the journey, more than just a few colleges will be represented at the tourney in the form of college scouts. Among them will be Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, Duke University, which is currently rated first in the nation, and Clemson.

Further information, including additional pairings and Wednesday's results, will be included in Thursday's Press-Record.

Breaks lift Kahoks past Warriors, 3-1

The Collinsville Kahok soccer team Thursday night did something no other team has been able to do this year.

The Kahoks beat Granite City, Hazelwood East, Quincy Sr., St. Mary's of St. Louis, and nine other squads could not beat the Warriors, but Collinsville did by a 3-1 margin before 1,200 at the Football Bowl.

And as usually happens when two top-notch teams tangle, the team which got — or made — the breaks won the game.

Break No. 1 for Collinsville was a freak goal that deflected off Kahok Brian Herzberg as he stooped to adjust a contact lens.

Break No. 2 was keeper Billy Jandis' save on a Granite City penalty kick early in the fourth quarter.

Both were obviously instrumental in dropping the Warriors' record to 8-1-1, but Kahok Coach Jim Stranz wasn't about to shortchange his players.

"The breaks did go our way, but when you work hard the breaks will go your way," Stranz said. "There was no soccer played tonight."

Warrior Coach Gene Baker, dressed unlike most high school soccer coaches in a three-piece suit, credited Collinsville with playing a strong game but hopes his team can improve before next week's Granite City Tournament of Champions.

"We didn't complement the talents of our players tonight, and I blame myself for that," Baker said. "We're going to have to make some more progress, and we'll soon see what we're made of."

Even the most resolute team would have trouble with the Kahoks' second goal of the game, which gave CHS a 2-0 lead.

Early in the second quarter, the Kahoks were pressing in front of the Granite City goal, and after taking a left-footed jab at the ball, Herzberg stooped down after getting bumped in the traffic in front of the net.

Meanwhile, the ball had bounced out to the opportunistic Burckett about 15 yards from the goal. His shot appeared to be well left of the goal mouth, but it bounced off the fallen Herzberg and found the left side of the net with 17:12 remaining in the half.

"His (Herzberg's) contact lens came unadjusted," Stranz said. "It was one of the most bizarre goals I've seen."

But the Kahoks didn't savor their two-goal lead for long. Just 45 seconds later Paul Macios ripped a shot past Daniels off a pass from Matt Sheridan on a free kick.

The half finished with both teams trading good scoring chances and good defensive efforts. Early in the third quarter the Kahoks missed a big opportunity when they had Blasina game far out of the net but couldn't get the ball away from Granite's defenders.

But Collinsville scored an insurance goal minutes later on a breakaway. The Kahoks' Randy Hensler picked up a long ball on the run and raced between two Granite defenders.

Hensler won that race and was able to poke the ball past Blasina game at the 46:17 mark in the game.

Collinsville had a 3-1 lead, but complexion of the game almost changed dramatically 40 seconds into the fourth period. Randy Ratay was penalized for a foul in the left side of the white area, and the Warriors were awarded a penalty kick.

The Kahoks argued the call, which resulted in Ratay receiving a yellow card, but the call stood and Sheridan was ready to try to cut the Kahoks' lead to one.

But Daniels smothered Sheridan's low shot to the right center of the net and threw the momentum back to Collinsville.

"He was trying to get it low and was going to the corner," Daniels said. "I was just trying to think which way to go."

Collinsville may have won round one in 1983, but the two teams could meet in Granite City's Tournament of Champions, and more importantly, they could meet in the Edwardsville Sectional, where both teams are looking for a ticket to the state tournament.

"It's a big loss," Baker said, but he didn't speculate on what would happen if the two teams meet in postseason play.

"That's a hypothetical thing, but we'll see," Baker said.

Collinsville's victory over the Warriors is its third in the 20-game series between the two teams. The Warriors have won 16, while one game ended in a tie.

Of the last seven games between the two soccer powerhouses, only two of which have been played in Granite City, the Warriors have won four. Collinsville has won two while the seventh game ended in a tie.

It's possible that the two teams could meet in this weekend's Granite City High Tournament of Champions. If that doesn't happen, both teams must meet in the Edwardsville Sectional, as they did last year.

Both the Warriors and the Kahoks will host regionals this year, the Illinois High School Association has announced.

nothing came of it. Bellinger's goal, which was a header from a pass from Granite City's Steve Tritschsch at the 69:03 mark, appeared to raise the spirits of the SIUE team but to no avail.

It was the Alabama team's game, not that to finish.

However, after the game the coach of the Bulldogs, William Aboko-Cole, commented on the contest: "It was a bitterly fought game. I was little surprised at the 'hits' that SIUE used ... I didn't expect them to employ such tactics."

Pausing to reflect, he added: "It was entirely different from the last time I was here."

He explained: "In 1975, in the semifinals of the NCAA national Division I tournament, I was a member of the Howard University of Washington, D.C. team and we met SIUE on a very cold and windy Saturday afternoon."

We lost 2-2, while San Francisco beat Brown, 1-0. Our game with SIUE back there in '75 was, I still believe, one of the best college soccer games ever played. And I was very surprised when San Francisco beat SIUE the next day, 4-0."

The Alabama victory ran its record to 7-0 and makes them one of very few unbeaten major college teams still in the college soccer game.

The Cougars will return to action this coming Friday up at Macomb, Ill., in the annual Illinois Governor's Cup tournament hosted by Western Illinois University in first action, at 1 p.m., the Eastern Illinois Panthers meet Northern Illinois U., while at 3 p.m., the Cougars tangle with the Leathernecks of Western.

Saturday afternoon, the two first day losers meet for the consolation crown at 1 p.m., while the championship game will be at 1 p.m.

In SIUE Nike Tourney

Bulldogs bullish on Cougars; win 3-1

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

EDWARDSVILLE — (Special) — The Alabama A&M Bulldogs won the annual Nike Soccer Tournament here Sunday afternoon by completely dominating the Cougars of Southern Illinois University in the championship final game by a 3-1 score. Finishing third was George Mason University of Virginia with a 3-2 victory over the Purple Aces of the University of Evansville, Ind.

Named the tournament's Most Valuable Player was Nathaniel Ogedebe, who scored the Bulldogs' second goal on a lead pass from Ibezia Oledo the 17:19 mark. At 7:28, Pedro had gotten Alabama on the scoreboard first on a free kick from about 25 years out. Little Ogedebe's goal effectively dashed all Cougar hopes for a chance to stay in the game. Rightwinger Rahman Alarape's bang-bang goal right in front of the SIUE goal at 34:47 just wrote a more positive edge to that signal.

In the second half, when Cougar hopes appeared completely forlorn, Bruce Bellinger on probably the most beautiful goal of the entire two day tourney revived SIUE fans' hopes but

One-handed jumpers: Not welcome at first

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

Who was the first basketball player to ever use the one-hand jump-shot? I've tried these many (about 50) years to trace the guy down and, far as I'm concerned, the proper credit for this exciting shot is still unanswered.

The best I can ascertain, the one-hand jump-shot originated in western Kentucky, the birthplace of Jumpin' Joe Pulk, one of the greatest shots the hardwood court sport ever developed. The evidence, however, isn't conclusive.

Another standout contender for the honor was our own Len Davis, but those fans who saw him perform some of the greatest feats of basketball shooting say that The Champ's shot wasn't a truly one-hand shot.

Incidentally, while on the subject of Davis: in his senior year at Granite City High, Len and his teammates in football posted a record which will very probably never be beaten: the Warrior gridirers paced by Len Davis his senior year were both unbeaten and unscorred upon. That's almost unbelievable, in fact. I believe it is so incredible, I'm in the process of doing a complete feature story on it listing all the guys who made it possible. And, if you have any pictures of that group, please call me: Al Barnes, 432-0433.

But, back to the derring-do and thrilling one-hand shot.

The first time I saw it was my senior year at Lincoln Community High School up in the central part of Illinois (Logan County). Jack Lipe was the new varsity basketball coach for the Railsplitters and had come to us fresh from "a winning record at Lawrenceville."

It was his first cage practice of the 1929-30 season; just before terrible stock market crash which ushered in the Great Depression.

We were all milling around shooting at both ends of the court.

Suddenly, Coach Lipe blew his whistle ending the warm-ups.

But, flashing down the court toward Lipe came a fast-dribbling new kid, Bill Gibbs, a senior transfer from Harrisburg, Ill. As he hit the free throw line, he suddenly let fly the craziest shot I and all the rest of us guys had ever seen... the one-hand jump-shot. It swished in to the amazement of all of us.

Coach Lipe's whistle cut the air in repeated blasts. And, his angry outburst would have made a Marine drill man blush with shame. The gist of Lipe's vitriolic outburst was a simple: "If I ever see one of you guys take a shot like that, I'll ship you off to Siberia... if not farther," he screamed. There was no doubt in any of our minds that he meant it.

But, about two months later, when Lincoln was playing the Hilltoppers of Mt. Pulaski, their bitter county rivals, that Bill Gibbs, grabbed a rebound under the basket with the other team leading by one point.

With just seconds still on the clock, he dribbled straight toward the basket... and, at the foul-line stripe... he took off in the no-one-hand jump shot, which swished through just as the clock went off ending the game.

You guessed it, within no time at all every prep player within 50 miles had adopted the shot... and Coach Lipe no longer decreed that it couldn't be used.

Warrior spikers down Trojanettes

By PAULA WISE
of the Press-Record

MADISON — The Granite City Warrior volleyball team traveled to Madison last Wednesday and took a pair of victories from the Trojanettes 15-2, 15-6.

Spiker Lisa Lilley and setter Michelle Morgan led the way for the Warriors, working together to put spike after spike just out of reach of the Trojanettes.

Coach Wilma Schulze was very pleased with Morgan's performance. "When Michelle plays it is very obvious she has spent more time on a volleyball court than most girls," Schulze said. "Her movements look so natural, where other setters look mechanical," stated Schulze.

In the first game Granite moved to a 5-0 lead before a Regina Banks serve got Madison on the scoreboard.

After that it was all Granite City as the Warriors went on to win 15-2.

In the second game, Madison pulled to a 3-1 lead before Warrior Michelle Morgan gave her team a big boost serving eight straight points.

The Warriors were also helped out by the spiking of Lilley and Tami Jones.

Stephanie Walker tried to get the Trojanettes back in the game with a strong spike and an important defensive block.

Her efforts were without reward however as Granite City went on to win 15-6.

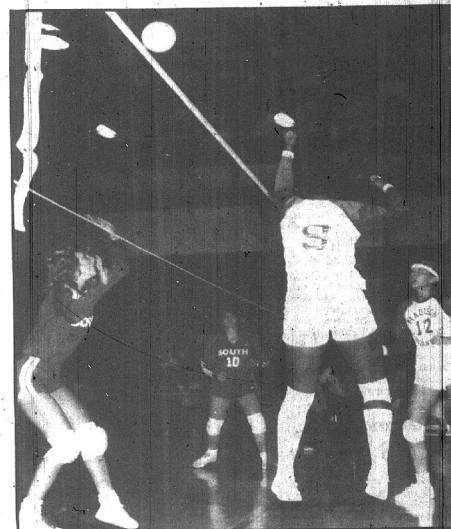

Madison Coach Carol Cole, whose team was playing the 6-2 offense for the first time Wednesday, was pleased with her team's performance.

"I have never been in a position where all of the girls could hit, usually one of them has to be a setter. This year I have six girls who can hit, so I decided to switch to the 6-2," stated Cole.

Cole, who plans to play this offense the rest of the year, felt her team did well for their first time.

"The main problem we had was getting the ball to the setter," Cole said.

The Trojanettes should improve as the season goes along and they become Madison's next match is tonight against Edwardsville.

Granite City will travel to Highland tonight to face the Lady Bulldogs in a 6:30 contest.

Broomball is played by two opposing teams on an ice surface, without skates. The sport resembles hockey in many facets. All scheduled games are played at the Wilson Park Ice Rink.

League play will be divided into a Men's League and a Co-Ed League. Anyone interested in this sport should be in attendance at this meeting.

The Park District is also looking for people who would be interested in officiating this program.

Dix paces Raiders

Tim Dix, a junior from Granite City, (South), is a member of this Wright State University soccer team under head coach Imad El-Macharrarie.

This year's squad returns to 10 letter winners from last year's 13-4-4 team which barely missed qualifying for a berth in the NCAA tournament and finished fourth in the final Ohio Soccer News poll.

Dix is a two-year letter winner who started as a freshman, but was used as a backup last year in 15 games. This year he will press to playing time at both midfield and stopper.

He is a hard-nosed player and has the best endurance of anyone on the team.

He is one of the better passers on the squad which helps in the transition from offense to defense. With the experience he gained last year in a new role, Tim should see more playing time and a possible starting position this season, El-Macharrarie said.

"Tim is an experienced veteran who displayed a great deal of improvement in his offensive and defensive abilities during the preseason. He should start in the midfield where he will be important in assisting the forwards in scoring."

Coach El-Macharrarie, in his first full year as head coach after taking the reins early last season, will lead the Raiders through an 18-match schedule this season.

This year's schedule includes six NCAA Division I opponents, two NCAA Division II tournament qualifiers and eight home matches.

The schedule is also highlighted with a match on Oct. 12 against last year's top Ohio squad, the University of Akron.

Wright State, a four year university, is located in Dayton, Ohio.

Davis intends to Lewis and Clark College

Trina Davis, daughter of David and Joyce Davis of Granite City, will be playing women's basketball at Lewis and Clark Community College this season.

The 5'11" freshman is a graduate of Granite City North High School, where she played basketball, averaging 12 points and 10 rebounds per game. She had a field goal percent of 49 and a free throw percent of 50.

She was the MVP in 1982, and selected to the All-Tourney team at the Collinsville High School Tournament in 1982, and was selected to participate in the McDonald's All-Star Classic (Missouri vs. Illinois) in 1983.

The first game of the season will be the John A. Logan Turkey Tourney, Nov. 25-26 at John A. Logan Community College in Carterville.

Kindernastics begins at YMCA

The Tri-City Area YMCA will offer a Kindernastics class Saturday, Oct. 1 at 10-45 a.m. The class will run for four weeks. The Kindernastics class is set up for pre-schoolers, ages three to five years old.

Activities in the class include learning about balance, self-space, and coordination.

Kindernastics is a movement education class where the child experiences many different activities. The child learns about taking turns, sharing, and helping each other.

Individuals should register one week prior to class date. For more information contact the YMCA at 876-7200.

On Saturday Warrior harriers fare well in Springfield meet

By MICHAEL BARTELS
of the Press-Record
SPRINGFIELD — The Granite City High School cross-country Warriors got a taste Saturday of what they'll see in the sectionals this fall at the Springfield Invitational.

Coach Pete Robinson's teams went up against two of the toughest teams in central Illinois, Springfield Lanphier and Pekin High schools.

The Warrior boys' team finished fifth in the 11-team meet, led by Jim Robertson's third place finish. The girls' team, led by the sixth place finish of sophomore Lora Wiser, took third place honors.

Pekin's Jack Park won the race with a time of 14:53, a new Springfield Invitational course record. The race's second place finisher, Chatham Glenwood's Dave Egan, had set the old record earlier in the week.

Sara Cogdal of Urbana High won the girls' competition with a first-place finish time of 11:09.4.

Coach Robinson was impressed with the schools represented at the meet.

"Year and year out there's good competition," he said. "But I think this is the toughest competition I've seen up here."

And the competition the Warriors faced could well be the competition they will meet in the end of October should they advance from the Regional meet at Edwardsville.

In the boys' competition, Lanphier snuck by Pekin for first place honors, scoring 57 points to Pekin's 60. Third place went to another capital school, Springfield High School, while fourth place went to Pekin Sr. Granite City scored 124 points to take fifth place.

Only two Granite City runners placed in the top 25 runners. Robertson ran the three-mile course in 15:15 while Jeff Hoese finished 23rd with a time of 16:33.2 on the hilly course.

In the girls' race, Granite City took third place behind Wiser's 11:31 performance and an exceptional ninth place finish from Michelle Shoemaker, who was clocked at 11:48. "Michelle ran her best race of the year," Robinson said after the race.

"She was in the top five for a long time. In that type of competition I thought that was real good."

Pekin took the first place trophy with 47 points and O'Fallon finished second with 60. Granite City finished with 70 points to take third.

With less than a month left until the District meet, Robinson is preparing for the state qualifying competition.

Robinson said he is taking his team to the SIU-Edwardsville course, which will be the home for the District meet, two times a week.

"We should be real confident about running that course," Robinson said. "Both teams should get out of the regional, but it's going to be a real battle getting out of the sectional."

Both Pekin and Lanphier will be in the same sectional as Granite City. The top five schools in each sectional as well as top five schools from Chicago will qualify for the state meet in November.

Robinson hopes his team will be successful this season and hopes that success will serve to inspire the younger runners in Granite City.

"We've got to get the sport into the junior high school," Robinson said. "That's what I'm going to work on in the off season. We've got a good following of parents and I think that'll help build a good nucleus."

The next test for the Warriors will be this afternoon at Granite City High School when they will face off against the Alton Redbirds. Alton, not a cross country powerhouse, has two athletes, who may compete with Granite City's ace, Robertson.

The Warrior coach said although Robertson may be tested by the Redbirds, he doesn't want Robertson or the rest of his harriers to run a hard race.

Robinson said when North and South high schools merged this season, the schedule became a compilation of the two. He doesn't feel racing too much is good for the runners.

"I don't like to run more than once a week," he said. "They end up racing more than training. Jimmy (Robertson) is really susceptible to bronchitis. We're not going to have him run the race hard. We've got to keep him healthy."

GCHS netters down Roxana for second victory

The Granite City High School girls' tennis team picked up its second win of the season Wednesday afternoon with a 5-2 victory over Roxana. The victory improves the Warriors' record to 2-6 on the season.

The Warriors lost the first two matches, first and second singles, before winning the next five straight to win the pairing.

In first singles, Dina Lombardi lost to Angie Nulty 5-7, 0-6 while teammate Sherri Outley lost to Judy Panikua 1-6, 0-6.

In third singles, Angela Pinkston gave the Warriors their first win of the afternoon as she edged Kelly Clendery 6-4, 3-6, 6-4. The three-set comeback match typified the Warriors' comeback from behind drive of the afternoon.

In fourth singles, Beth Suss dropped the first set to Roxana's Jean Whitworth 5-7, but came back to win the final two sets 6-1, 6-1 for the match win.

In doubles action, Maria Parra and Dawn Schwartz teamed to defeat Marce Keller and Theresa Eudy 6-3, 7-6. The victory gave the Warriors a 3-2 lead.

In second doubles, Andrea Suarez and Laura Smolar teamed to defeat Kim Daubenspeck and Missy Stanton 6-1, 6-2. The victory guaranteed the Warrior team victory.

The final doubles match, third doubles, pitted Granite City's Dawn Bower and Robyn Morelen against Shawn Likeman and Kris Jones. And, again the Warriors emerged victorious.

The Warriors take to the courts this afternoon as they take on Triad in St. Jacob at 4 p.m.

Madison kickers zap Assumption; win 6-0

The Madison High School soccer team picked up its third win of the season Thursday afternoon with a 6-0 victory over Assumption in Madison.

Two Trojans, Brian Brown and Michael Young, scored two goals each. The other goals were made by Terrence Hicks and Mark Martinez.

Brown was the first Trojan to tag the scoreboard as he scored on Del-Joy Williams' corner kick. The goal, the first of three for the Trojans in the first quarter, came just under four minutes into the contest.

Williams picked up his second assist of the game as he put into play a corner kick which Martinez booted into the goal just six minutes after the Trojans first goal.

Leading 2-0, Madison made it 3-0 at the 12:20 mark as Hicks scored on Williams' sideline throw-in.

After an uneventful second quarter, Young pushed a shot past Assumption's goalie after taking Zemy Ransom's pass. The goal, first of two consecutive for Young, came at the 43 minute mark.

Just more than four minutes later, Young did it again. He dribbled towards the Assumption goal for about 20 yards before scoring the unassisted goal.

Brown picked up his second goal of the afternoon at 62:13, picking the shot past Assumption's defenders. It was a 6-0 as he was credited with the assist.

Trojan coach Gene Briggs called Thursday's victory "the best team effort of the season."

The Trojans will get a chance to further test their team ability this Wednesday as they travel to Bethalto to meet the Eagles for a 4 p.m. game.

Bethalto rips Madison

The Trojans' varsity volleyball team dropped its match against Bethalto 15-9, 15-7, Thursday at Madison.

The Trojans looked strong early in the match, taking a 7-0 lead in the first game. Unfortunately, the Madison spikers began to cool off just as the Eagles were warming up. Within a matter of minutes, the Eagles had tied the game at 9-9.

When Bethalto went on to take a 10-9 lead, the game was as good as over for Madison's squad. The Eagles followed at 11-9 time out with four consecutive scores, winning the game 15-9 on a scorching cross-court spike.

According to Coach Carol Cole, her teams were out of points at the beginning of the season were serving and a general lack of experience. It was evident in the second game of Thursday's match that these problems still plague The Trojans to some degree.

Madison handed the Eagles an easy 5-0 lead, then came up with four points of their own. However, the Trojans stalled at a score of 6-4 and never totally recovered.

Even with the Eagles ahead 11-4 the Madison squad refused to give up. The Trojans spikers held Bethalto at 11, scoring three points in the meantime, but the rally came just a bit too late.

At 11-7 Bethalto regained its momentum and polished off the game with four scores in a row, again scoring the final point with a blazing cross-court spike.

Madison's junior varsity squad fared even worse than their varsity counterparts. After losing the first game 15-6, they scored only two points in a mercifully quick 15-2 defeat.

Park hoop meeting set

An organizational meeting for the teams wishing to participate in the Granite City Park District leagues will be held on Thursday, Oct. 6 at 7 p.m. at the Harold Brin Recreation Center.

This meeting will cover registration, rules and dates. The various leagues that make up our program are: Classic League, for men 17 League, for women 16 years or older; Church League, for players 15 years or older who attend a particular church; and the High School Boys League, for players who are in high school during the current school year.

The basketball program will begin during the week of

Nov. 28 and games are played at Prather Elementary School and Grigsby and Coolidge Jr. High Schools, Monday through Thursday evenings.

Persons wishing to play this year, should be at this meeting. For more information, persons should contact John Lakin, recreation supervisor at 877-3069.

Bill would suspend gas shipments from Algeria

U.S. Senator Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.), along with 10 of his Midwestern Senate colleagues, introduced a bill Friday, which would suspend all shipments of Algerian liquefied natural gas (LNG) to Trunkline LNG Company — a subsidiary of Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Company — which ships LNG to Illinois, Missouri, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and Kansas.

"I don't want to see that gas in Illinois unless it is fairly priced," Percy said. "Senators in surrounding states don't either. Our bill will send a strong message to Algeria that we won't stop our efforts to get fair prices for consumers in our states."

Percy's legislation requires the Department of Energy (DOE) to suspend the authorization of Trunkline LNG Company to import LNG in the United States within 10 days after the bill is enacted. After a minimum of 18 months, DOE may resume the import authorization if it is determined to be in the public interest.

Trunkline LNG Company and Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Company together provide gas to 72 of Illinois' 102 counties. These counties are in the central and southern part of the state and are served by Central Illinois Light Company (CILCO), Central Illinois Power (CIPS), Illinois Power Company, and a number of municipal utilities.

"Stopping shipments of Algerian LNG to Illinois and the Midwest would bring real relief to hard-pressed consumers," Percy said. "This could mean a 5 to 10 percent reduction in rates for utilities, which would translate into savings for the average consumer."

Percy also applauded

DOE's order Friday reopening the Trunkline LNG case it deferred last February. In roughly two months, DOE should issue a final order that will decide whether Algerian LNG imports should be suspended or if other actions should be taken if the price does not come down.

"I hope that we obtain a regulatory solution to the problem of high priced LNG," Percy said. "One way or another, I want to see this issue resolved."

Throughout the past year, Percy has intervened in cases before DOE, held two hearings and met personally with representatives from the Algerian government on the issue of high priced LNG.

The Senators co-sponsoring Percy's bill, include Alan Dixon (D-Ill.), John Danforth (R-Mo.), Thomas Eagleton (D-Mo.), and others from Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and Kansas.

IFT hails bargaining rights law

Robert M. Healey, president of the Illinois Federation of Teachers, the state's largest teacher organization, has praised Governor James Thompson's action in signing HB 1530, a bill jointly sponsored by the IFT and Illinois Education Association.

The bill grants collective bargaining rights to tens of thousands of teachers and education workers throughout the state, Healey noted.

He stressed that HB 1530 was the result of a cooperative effort by the two groups, which worked cooperatively with House Speaker Michael Madigan.

"Together, we drafted the bill and then worked in a coalition with House and Senate leaders to get the votes necessary to pass this long-overdue legislation."

The IFT president expressed satisfaction that the governor signed the bill without excluding coverage for higher education workers, as had been rumored.

"Excluding higher education workers from the bill would have denied thousands of university employees the orderly and constructive relationship with their employers which collective bargaining provides," Healey concluded.

PORTABLE TV TAKEN

A 19-inch portable television set valued at $50 was stolen and the apartment of Beverly Young, 2107 Alexander Ave., was ransacked Thursday evening.

EARNING CERTIFICATE. Madison Police Officer William Weidner, left, presents "ride-a-long" certificates to Explorers Neal Mize, 18, center, and Dan Fleig, 18, both of Venice. The two rode with Madison officers on the beat for a required number of hours to earn the certificates. Prior to riding with officers, the Explorers undergo special training in patrol methods, police radio use and observation. Explorer Post 10-4 is sponsored by Police Unit 110, Police Benevolent and Protective Association, of which Weidner is president.

Madison County Zoning Board conducts hearings

The Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals will hold three on-site public hearings in Quad-City area townships Thursday, Oct. 6. The first hearing will be held at 10:30 a.m. on Old Alton Road, across the highway from Glub Place Subdivision, where Leona G. Lindsay and Ethel Wallace are requesting a special use permit to place a mobile home for the duration of Mrs. Wallace's life.

The second hearing will begin at 10:35 a.m. at 3300 Harvard in State Park Subdivision, where Audrey Ward and Dennis Ward are requesting a permit to allow the continued placement of their mobile home for as long as possible.

The third hearing will begin at 10:40 a.m. along West Point Street, approximately two and one-half blocks from Route 49, where Lowell and Ellen Harris are requesting a special use permit to place a mobile home on the property for at least five years.

After the on-site public hearings, the Board of Appeals will reconvene in the offices of the Madison County building and zoning department to render its recommendations. The Madison County Board will then approve or disapprove of the recommendations.

Legislation to protect evidence in rape cases

Governor James R. Thompson has signed legislation which will ensure that evidence taken from alleged rape victims in hospital emergency rooms is properly handled and kept for use in legal proceedings.

The governor signed HB 793 which requires the Department of Law Enforcement to administer a Vitullo evidence kit, program to distribute and collect the standard evidence kits and to analyze and safeguard the evidence for future use. The city of Chicago will be responsible for these duties in the metropolitan Chicago area.

"In requiring the proper handling of Vitullo evidence kits, both before and after the crime, we take a step forward in the successful prosecution of an increasing number of rape victims," Thompson said.

House Bill 793 goes into effect Jan. 1, 1984. In a related matter, the governor approved legislation which will require hospitals to submit to the state a plan for emergency treatment of rape victims. The plan must be received by the Department of Public Health by Jan. 1, 1984.

Under this measure, the Department will periodically conduct on-site reviews of the plans with hospital personnel to ensure implementation of the programs.

In other legislative action, the governor approved the following measures:

—House Bill 881 mandates

local law enforcement agencies to take a set of a child's fingerprints at the parent's or guardian's request and provide the parent or guardian with fingerprint cards. Authorities may charge a fee to cover their costs. The bill takes effect in November.

House Bill 1567 prohibits discrimination or punishment of any kind against a student whose parents or guardians are unable to pay required fees or purchase required books or materials. The effective date is Jan. 1, 1984.

Senate Bill 820 allows the courts to take into consideration an aggravating factor, the fact that a crime victim was 60 years of age or older at the time of the crime. The legislation is effective Jan. 1.

Senate Bill 409 encourages cooperation between public and private libraries in the use of library resources. The measure allows libraries to join together for the formation of multi-library systems, which could combine public and private libraries such as school, special and academic libraries. Voluntary conversion to a multi-type system must be approved by 51 percent of the population being served and by the Secretary of State. The bill, which provides the structure to make the cooperative efforts more uniform, takes effect immediately.

Toll-free line for civilian health plan of armed services

CHAMPUS families may call the claims processor at 1-800-622-3131 with questions about claims from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Starting on Oct. 1 Illinois families are to mail their claims for care received in this state to Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Rhode Island, P.O. Box 1702, Providence, R.I. 02901.

BURGLAR TAKES CAMERA EQUIPMENT

Camera equipment valued at $300, several lenses covers and filters to two cameras, plus $100 cash, were among the items taken in a burglary at the home of Dave Nolan, 2000 Garfield Ave., reported last week.

Entry into the dwelling was gained by prying a door leading from the garage. The master bedroom was ransacked and other items may be missing, the homeowner said. An inventory was being taken.

BACK IN THE SWING of things, students at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville are back on the campus again after a three-month summer vacation. While the enrollment figures will not be completed for about two weeks, university officials are anticipating a good school year.
